Congress Session Ends As House Quits

Adjournment Leaves Sugar Bill Stranded

86th Now History
Unless President
Summons It Back

WASHINGTON (AP)—The second session of the 86th Congress officially ended when the House adjourned at 6:52 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time Thursday.

Congress is composed of two co-equal branches, neither of which can transact any legislative business without the concurrence of the other. Thus, adjournment of the House meant that the session had ended, although it did not mean that the Senate had to quit simultaneously.

In fact, the Senate did stay in session for several hours more, considering some business. Under the rules, it could pass bills previously approved by the House, but could not act on anything which would require further House action.

The Senate stalled completely at 8:08 p.m. when opponents of a minor bill demanded a quorum call.

Midnight Deadline

Clerks slowly read the names of senators for an hour and a half. By 9:38 p.m. a quorum still had not been produced.

If the Senate fails to get a quorum, it must adjourn under its rules.

And under the resolution which both branches passed Thursday, the Senate cannot sit after midnight.

Unless President Eisenhower calls a special session, the 86th Congress now is history. The 87th Congress will convene next Jan. 3.

Adjournment left stranded a bill to allow the President to cut sugar imports from the Dominican Republic.

The House refused to accept the Senate's version of the bill, and the Senate stood firm against the House measure.

Administration backers in the Senate argued the House bill would hem in the President's authority with impossible qualifications.

House Demo Argument
House Democratic leaders said the White House has declared war on the Dominican Republic and that Congress shouldn't be a party to it. The United States has broken relations with the Dominican Republic, which has been denounced by the Organization of American States.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that Eisenhower might call Congress back in special session if it adjourned without passing a sugar bill.

The dispute kept the two chambers at work until around 4 a.m. when they quit to snatch a few hours of rest.

Meeting less than seven hours later, the House Agriculture Committee definitely voted to insist on the House version of the legislation. The vote was 18-11, with one committee member listing himself as "present."

Preliminary to this, the committee—on an almost straight Democrat-vs.-Republican vote—rejected the Senate bill which would give the President unhampered powers to slash or wipe out the Dominican sugar quota.

ABA Backs Repeal Of World Court Veto

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Assembly of the American Bar Assn. Thursday approved an earlier action by the organization's House of Delegates to seek repeal of a U.S. reservation on U.S. membership in the World Court.

By a one-sided voice vote, the lawyers attending the ABA's 83rd annual meeting concurred in Wednesday's action by the House of Delegates to urge repeal of the reservation which says the United States itself has a right to decide whether cases involving it are subject to World Court decision.

PRR, Striking Unions Brace For Long Fight

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The sprawling Pennsylvania Railroad, America's biggest, lay idle Thursday for the first time in its 114-year history. It was brought to a standstill by a strike by 20,000 nonoperating employees.

Management and labor negotiators, prodded by a federal mediator, met separately but without noticeable haste in their quest for settlement of a work rule-job security dispute that started in 1957.

Both sides braced for a possible long bargaining fight. Statements they issued were unyielding.

Meanwhile, commuters and shippers cast about for other means of service in the 13 states and the District of Columbia where the PRR operates 10,000 miles of track among industrial and agricultural centers.

Fears of a stiff blow to the nation's economy were layered for the time being.

So far the pinch has been slight. Warned in advance, most firms stockpiled materials and supplies. Industry had hastened delivery of finished items to market.

The Defense Department in Washington said the strike would have "no major impact upon military traffic or shipments."

A long strike could create problems in moving out farm goods. Trucks are being pressed into service throughout the affected regions. Goods are rerouted to other rail lines.

Buses, autos, planes and other railroads are carrying the 136,000 passengers who normally ride the PRR to and from work or shopping each day.

Normally the PRR operates 722 passenger trains daily, and nearly 850 freight trains. Now, not a wheel is turning. Some 200,000 freight cars, 5,000 passenger and 2,000 engines stand ghost-like in the yards.

About all that's moving around PRR property are the picketing members of the two unions: The Transport Workers, with 15,000 strikers, and the System Federation, 5,000.

Ironically, Thursday was an important anniversary for the PRR. It first started service on Sept. 1, 1849, on a 61-mile run between Harrisburg and Lewistown, Pa. It was founded in 1846.

Strikes have slowed it down in the past.

Pair Accused Of Trying To Bribe Two A.L. Umps

JESSUP, Md. (AP)—Two men who tried to get two American League umpires to influence the outcome of a baseball game have been charged with attempted extortion. State Police said Thursday night.

Sgt. S.R. Dorsey said the men charged are Donald E. Anderson and Robert D. Waldron, in their 30s, both of Washington, D. C.

They were arrested about 1 a.m. Thursday in a stakeout at Baltimore's Friendship International Airport after umpires Ed Runge and Bill McKinley arranged a meeting for police.

"They talked of throwing a game but they never specified what game or date," said Sgt. Dorsey.

"The umpires had contacted us but couldn't arrange a meeting. But they had to leave last night

Integration Delay Denied By High Court

Boards At Houston,
New Orleans Say
They'll Obey Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court refused Thursday to halt scheduled racial integration of first grade classes in New Orleans and Houston. School boards of both cities promptly said they would obey the ruling.

The court, acting on three racial integration cases, also declined to interfere with a lower court order directing the admission of at least 22 Negro students into the Wilmington, Del., schools at every grade level this month.

In the Louisiana and Texas cases, the high court struck down petitions filed Thursday morning by attorneys for the State of Louisiana and the Houston Independent School District.

Both petitions sought to block integration of the first grade classes. The court did uphold one lower court order postponing the start of New Orleans integration from Sept. 6 until Nov. 14.

Board To Draft Plan
In New Orleans, Parish School Board Chairman Lloyd Rittiner said the board will be able to work out some kind of plan for integration on Nov. 14.

Rittiner was pleased at the court's decision, which was confirmation of a 65-day-old lower court ruling ordering school integration.

NAACP attorney A. P. Tureaud indicated in New Orleans that the number of Negroes wanting to enter first grade of white schools probably will be less than a hundred.

In Houston, the court's decision was accepted "under protest and duress" by Dr. Henry A. Petersen, chairman of the city's school board. He said, however, that Houston's public schools will be integrated next week. Seven Negroes have tried to register in previously all-white first grade classes.

Delaware Order Upheld
The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) had appealed to the high court to cancel the New Orleans delay, approved earlier this week by Federal Judge J. Skelly Wright. Houston schools now are under court order to integrate first grades next week.

In a related decision, the justices refused to set aside an order directing the Wilmington, Del., school board to present a plan for complete integration within 30 days. The plan would go into effect when schools open in the fall of 1961.

Klein said Nixon is due to leave the hospital in 10 days—only a day before he takes off for Indianapolis, Dallas and San Francisco.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, once a strong critic of Nixon's, called on the vice president at the hospital Thursday.

Afterward, Rockefeller predicted a Republican victory in November and announced he will make a coast-to-coast tour for the GOP ticket.

Nixon's itinerary showed that he will touch North, South, East and West on the plane-auto trip to 18 cities and towns.

His activities will range from a plowing contest speech at Guthrie Center, Iowa, to opening the Minnesota Republican campaign Sept. 17.

Klein said the whirlwind trip will set the pattern for the remainder of Nixon's presidential campaign.

Mrs. Nixon will accompany the vice president on his first fall campaign tour, Klein said. Nixon opened his presidential campaign in July with a trip to Hawaii.

Doctors at the Army hospital Thursday reported less inflammation in Nixon's knee joint but said he will require antibiotic treatment until Sept. 11.

"The vice president had excellent rest during the night and is working today while in bed," Klein said. "He has no fever and continues to be in very good spirits."

U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the Republican vice-presidential candidate, plans to open his campaign Saturday—the day he resigns his U.N. post—with a hand-shaking tour of New York's Catskill Mountain resorts.

Nixon To Start On 9,000-Mile Swing Sept. 12

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon will kick off an all-out campaign for the presidency Sept. 12 by starting on a six-day 9,000-mile swing through 14 states.

Announcing this Thursday Nixon's press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, said these plans are an excellent indication of encouraging progress Nixon has been making at Walter Reed Army Hospital where Nixon is undergoing treatment for an infected knee.

Klein said Nixon is due to leave the hospital in 10 days—only a day before he takes off for Indianapolis, Dallas and San Francisco.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, once a strong critic of Nixon's, called on the vice president at the hospital Thursday.

Kremlin Discreetly Warns Red China It Cannot Stand Alone

MOSCOW (AP)—The Kremlin has discreetly warned the Red Chinese they could never expect to stand alone against the capitalist world.

The oblique warning was a striking example of the back-drooping ideological debate between Moscow and Peking over the theory and practice of Communist world policy. Rarely have published statements gone so far as to address the Red Chinese directly and by name in the months of ideological bickering.

The reminder of Communist China's dependence upon the Soviet Union appeared in an article by S. Titarenko in the central newspaper of the Latvian Communist party, Soviet Latvia. Diplomats considered this a curious vehicle for transmission of such a reminder, since it is not in general circulation throughout the rest of the Soviet republics.

(The article, however, was one of at least three on this theme produced recently by Titarenko. The other two were in newspapers of general circulation, but did not mention Red China by name. Titarenko is an experienced Communist party theoretician who also served under Stalin. His articles have appeared in central theoretical periodicals.)

The debate centers on the question of the inevitability of world conflict between the Communists and the capitalists. Premier Nikita Khrushchev contends such a war now can be avoided in view of growing Soviet strength. The Chinese evidently reject this idea as contrary to the views of Lenin on the inevitability of an ultimate clash of communism and capitalism.

The Titarenko article, repeating the contentions of Khrushchev, denounced as dogmatists those who consider World War III inevitable. Such views, it said, hinder the mobilization of the Communist camp against "imperialism" and get in the way of Communist assistance to emerging independent countries in the former "colonial world."

"Can one imagine in actual conditions of life today the successful building of socialism, even in such a great country as China, if this country were isolated and could not rely on the cooperation and mutual aid of all countries of the Socialist camp?" Titarenko wrote.

"Such a country, blockaded economically by capitalist countries, would also be subjected to war and strikes from the outside. It would suffer the greatest difficulties even if it could resist the blows from its enemies."

While it was too early to assess the probable results, Khrushchev's visit was certain to add spice to the American presidential election campaign which by then will be in full swing.

Khrushchev has denounced both the candidates, Republican Richard M. Nixon and Democrat John F. Kennedy, as lackeys of monopoly capitalism. Neither Nixon nor Kennedy displayed any hurt feelings.

Ike Expected To Counter
Khrushchev U.N. Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower appeared almost certain Thursday to go to New York to deliver a major Western reply to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's United Nations speech.

This was reported to be the initial administration strategy to cope with what was viewed as a bold move by the Soviet leader to press the Soviet's anti-Western offensive later this month from a forum inside the United States.

Eisenhower was understood to have no present plans for any private meeting with Khrushchev—either in New York or in Washington.

The White House declined any comment on Khrushchev's plans except to say, through Anne Wheaton, assistant press secretary, that "we will have nothing

Action Taken On Eve Of Big Castro Rally

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime seized Cuban plants of three big U.S. rubber companies Thursday in a new anti-American economic offensive that may reach a peak at a mammoth people's rally Friday.

In a bristling speech, Raul Castro, Prime Minister Castro's younger brother, hinted that all 600 U.S. businesses in Cuba that escaped nationalization may be taken over. There was speculation Fidel Castro would announce such action at the rally.

Following the familiar pattern of seizure, armed militiamen moved in on the U.S. Rubber, Goodyear and Firestone plants after workers accused the companies of trying to cut production to sabotage Castro's revolution, the U.S. Embassy reported.

Slowdown Denied

Company spokesmen, after executives of the firms were ordered to get out of the plants, denied there had been any slowdown of production.

The embassy said it was informed a fourth company, Goodyear, escaped because 80 per cent of its stock is held by a Mexican subsidiary of the American company.

The four companies normally meet all of Cuba's requirements for tires and other rubber goods through manufacturers here or by imports. There were reports the rubber companies will retaliate by halting heavy purchases of rayon and nylon cord from Cuba.

Break With U. S. Speculated
U.S. sources predicted an early move against other American companies. There was speculation such action will be announced at Friday's rally—now formally called "the general assembly of the Cuban people."

It appeared something important was afoot for the rally. Newspapers and radios called on "every Cuban who can walk" to turn out for the "general assembly."

There were rumors Fidel Castro might use the mass meeting to break off relations with the United States.

Dag Hails Soviet Leader's Decision

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld Thursday night welcomed Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's decision to come to the General Assembly because it afforded a possibility for top level discussions.

Hammarskjöld in a rare official comment on any government's decision on the personnel of its assembly delegation, said Khrushchev's decision indicated "a recognition of the key role" of the United Nations.

Premier Will Head Soviet U.N. Team

Chiefs Of All Red
Countries Except
China Will Attend

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced Thursday night Premier Nikita Khrushchev will head its delegation to the U.N. General Assembly opening Sept. 20 in New York. Within hours it was learned Friday that the government chiefs of all Communist countries except Red China also will attend.

Communist diplomatic sources said the foreign ministers of all U.N. members in the Soviet bloc except Red China had held a secret meeting in Bucharest early last month and decided on the attendance of their government chiefs.

Five-Point Program Drafted
They said it also was decided to present this five-point Communist bloc program to the assembly:

1. Charging American aggression against the Soviet Union.
2. A program of aid to new African nations.

3. Creation of nuclear-free zones in the Baltic, Central Europe, the Balkans, the Far East and possibly other regions.

4. A program for the education of world youth in the principles of peaceful coexistence.

5. A U.N. guarantee for the Oder-Neisse frontier between Germany and Poland.

Informants said Khrushchev might use the U.N. platform to unveil some new disarmament plan. Disarmament is the assembly agenda subject he had earlier suggested that chiefs of government take up at the U.N.

The Kremlin's allies, except for Communist China which is not a U.N. member, were quick to announce they would be on hand for the meeting in New York.

Ike Might Attend
As a result the Assembly may become, for a time at least, a sort of summit meeting on disarmament.

Khrushchev proposed several weeks ago that the heads of government of as many powers as possible should attend the Assembly's disarmament debate. This met with a cool reception around the world but President Eisenhower said he would consider going if he thought it necessary.

The General Assembly will consider many subjects, including the Congo, but disarmament will be among top items on the agenda.

The Assembly session will last three months. How long Khrushchev will stay may depend on when and how disarmament is discussed. Ordinarily the Assembly session starts with two weeks of general debate.

Townsend Plan Creator Dies

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, creator of the Townsend Plan offering $200 a month to the aged, died Thursday at the age of 93.

Doctors said Townsend, whose plan was devised during the depression of the desperate 1930s, died this afternoon of pneumonia at St. Vincent Hospital. He was admitted to the hospital Friday.

The founder of the so-called Townsend Plan for financial security in old age was active almost up until the very end. He interrupted a tour of Townsend clubs to enter the hospital. Some 400 of the clubs are still in existence.

Townsend authored his plan during the depression of the early 1930s and he attracted millions of adherents to the cause.

His plan had a two-fold purpose—to help the needy aged and to stimulate the flow of money to help the nation back on its feet.

A retired Long Beach, Calif., physician, Townsend emerged as a sort of messiah for those in need. His plan called for a 3 per cent income tax to finance monthly pensions of $200 for every citizen over the age of 60.

He described his original plan as only a temporary economic measure and revised it many times during subsequent years.

At its height, the Townsend Plan claimed 10,000 clubs and a membership of five-million persons.

His plan was introduced as legislation in Congress but the crusading doctor never won enough support to turn his dreams into law.

Kennedy Says GOP Blocked Top Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy accused congressional Republicans Thursday of blocking action on education, housing, minimum wage and health bills. He said they also played politics with civil rights.

The Democratic presidential nominee was joined by 23 other Democratic senators in a statement promising action early next year to carry out the Democratic platform's civil rights pledges.

Kennedy released the statement at a news conference called to review the record of the pre-campaign session of Congress and to set the record straight on civil rights legislation.

"We have not tried to match the 11th-hour Republican tactic of substituting stated political maneuvering for effective legislation," Kennedy and his fellow Democrats said.

They said Republican leaders were fully aware that "no significant civil rights measure could have passed in the political atmosphere of rancor" that developed in the special session.

"This same political atmosphere has also prevented action on a farm bill and on adequate minimum wage, housing, health care for the aged, and education bills," the statement said.

It added that the real aim of GOP congressional leaders was to block those measures and not to pass progressive legislation.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, (D-Ga.), a leader of the anti-civil rights bloc, said in a statement he deplored "threats from any source" to carry out "vicious" civil rights provisions in either the Democratic or Republican platforms.

He promised that "stout resistance will be offered to any and all of these proposals in the next Congress by a group of old-fashioned believers in the constitution of the United States and our dual system of government."

"We may be few in number but we are inspired by the conviction that our cause is just," Russell said.

Kennedy conceded he was disappointed in the record made by the 100th Congress in the session but refused to speculate whether it had hurt him politically.

He said the main reason for the session's failure was the fact that President Eisenhower was opposed to much of the Democratic program and helped defeat it with threats of vetoes.

Kennedy also declared that he did not intend to discuss his GOP opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, "while he's out there in the hospital" recovering from an infected knee.

Baltimore Co. Youth's Swine Cop Top Prizes

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP)—A 14-year-old Baltimore County high school boy, who wants to own his own farm someday, won two grand championships Thursday in the judging of 4-H swine at the State Fair.

Danny Martin, a ninth grader at Hereford High School, won both the junior and grand championship for a sweep of the Berkshire breed division. Then he took the top prize in judging of Duroc swine.

Martin also won some first place awards with two cows he showed in 4-H Brown Swiss dairy cattle judging this week. But he said swine are his first interest.

The tanned, sturdy youngster lives on the farm of his father, Russell L. Martin, near the Carroll County line. He said he isn't sure whether he will go on to college but is sure he wants to get his own land and raise swine.

His brother, James Martin, 26, has shown swine in adult judging at the fair. Danny said his brother bought land from their father and wants Danny to live with him.

Danny has picked up innumerable awards in swine judging at several county fairs and a fair at Gettysburg, Pa.

Cooler weather made conditions more comfortable for exhibitors, animals and spectators during judging of swine and sheep, the final 4-H competition in livestock at the fair.

The 4-H cattle began moving from the barns to make way for incoming livestock scheduled to show in adult competition next week. Fair officials predicted a turnout of 2,525 in entries cattle, swine and sheep divisions next week.

Fair weather has helped bring out one of the largest crowd turnouts of any first week at the fair, officials said. If the good weather continues, they predicted a new record for the two weeks. The weather on Labor Day should make the difference they said, since this is traditionally the biggest crowd day at the fair.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — Funeral services will be held at the Wilson Memorial Methodist Church here Saturday morning for former Mayor Howard W. Jackson.

The 83-year-old four-term mayor died in his sleep Wednesday at his home.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The death of two accident victims in Baltimore has increased Maryland's highway death toll for the year to 346, or 10 more than in the same period of 1959.

The latest victims included Samuel Barrett, 30, Negro, injured Aug. 15 when his motorcycle rammed a parked car, and Leroy Johnson, 7, Negro, struck by a car Tuesday.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Another fruit processing plant will reopen soon to handle the 1960 apple crop.

The National Fruit Products Co. announced it would call its first shifts of about 200 workers Sept. 8 and add a night shift Sept. 12. The company makes apple sauce and cider.

Youth Fatally Stabs Girl, 14

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The body of a 14-year-old girl was found in a suburban park Thursday and later her boy friend admitted plunging the blade of a letter opener into her back.

"I wanted to see if I had the guts to shove a knife into somebody," Leroy Pinkowski, 19, told police.

The youth entered a police station shortly after the nearly nude body of Diane Mae Zibolsky was found in Kopperud Park of suburban West Allis by two workmen as they ate their lunch.

"I'm wanted for the murder of that girl," Pinkowski said when he walked up to the main desk of the district police station.

Pinkowski, whose surrender came less than two hours after the body was found, said he deliberated more than an hour last night before stabbing the girl he had known and dated casually for six months.

The boy, a tall, dark youth with tattoos on both arms, said he and the girl "necked a little and talked for about an hour." During the time, he said, he slipped the letter opener out of his left pocket, switched it behind his back to his right hand, and held it poised behind Miss Zibolsky's back.

Pinkowski said he finally plunged the opener into the girl's back when she bent forward to roll down the legs of her slacks because of mosquitoes.

Runge and McKinley played along, trying to get more information, but the men said nothing that would give them away. The umpires called State Police and were told to play along and advised what to say and not to say.

The men contacted Runge and McKinley four or five more times before they were arrested.

Each man was held in $5,000 bail at the Jessup State Police barracks. They are to be arraigned at 11 a.m. Friday before Magistrate William Clarke of Odenton, Anne Arundel County.

Bail was set by State's Attorney J.O. Duval of Anne Arundel County.

'Melvin Miller Week' Off To Raucous, Zany Start

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP)—"Gentlemen," said Peoria's Melvin Miller, resplendent in a flowered luau shirt, "my wife told me on the telephone to relax and have fun. That's what I'm going to do."

A loud cheer greeted Good Ol' Mel's announcement at a civic reception Thursday that officially touched off "Melvin Miller Week" in this seaside colony.

For trapped miners, flag pole sitters and others out of touch lately, this, briefly is the saga of Melvin Miller.

Melvin, 40, is the solid citizen from Peoria who a year ago got a chance telephone call from Laguna Beach. The call was from a complete stranger, Marine Capt. Joe Gestson, and led to a long distance friendship. Gestson's Leatherneck buddies pitched in dime and quarters to bring Mel here for a free week of zany festivities.

At a breakfast sponsored by Laguna's leading burghers, Mel was given a straw hat, flowered shirt and a large "Welcome Melvin" cake decorated with a toy tractor honoring his job as a tractor factory foreman.

Lunar Satellite Try Scheduled By U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will attempt to hurl a 400-pound space station into an orbit around the moon late this month to radio back information vital to future exploration of space.

For the first time in the history of U. S. space trips, the lunar orbiter will carry rockets to correct its course during the 21-day trip to the moon.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) will use a three-stage Atlas-Able rocket to fire the station toward the moon from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Once on its way, rockets built into the spacecraft will correct its speed and course so as to put it into a polar orbit 3,000 to 4,000 miles above the moon.

Its job then will be make radiation, guidance, propulsion, and communications studies for use in future space trips.

Mich. Storm Kills 4

DETROIT (UPI)—At least four persons were killed Thursday when a late summer storm howled across Michigan, smashing buildings and cars, setting fires and throwing communications into near chaos.

Before Mel and his Marine pals left for nearby Del Mar racetrack and the running of the "Melvin Miller Stakes," he was presented a key to the city jail. The chief of police invited Good Ol' Mel to drop in "any time you want some peace and quiet."

After Wednesday night's raucous reception, Mel said he might take him up on it. Hundreds of Mel's fans jammed the Sandpiper bar, favorite Marine hangout and scene of Gestson's now historic telephone call.

There was only one calm moment—when Mel stepped up to the bar for his first drink.

There had been a pool on what brand Mel would request. Silence, then came nondrinker Melvin's voice: "I'll have a glass of Seven-Up."

Bartender Grant Maxwell swooned. Seated Leathernecks blanched. No one had bet on a soft drink—so Melvin picked up the $12 pool.

The first chance he got, Melvin broke away from the chaotic reception, retreated to his ocean-front hotel suite and called his wife in Peoria.

"Hello, Sally," he said. "I don't know why these folks are going to all this trouble for just an ordinary Joe like me."

"You'll probably see some pictures of me in the paper with some girls at the airport. I just thought I'd tell you so you won't think anything is wrong."

"Well anyway, I got kissed by Mamie Van Doren."

From Peoria came the voice of Sally, not much of a movie fan. "Who's Mamie Van Doren, Mel?"

Sometimes, Mel, a guy just can't make a nickel.

New Teaching Machines "Hit" With Students

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—The robots aren't coming to the nation's classrooms. They're here!

First, it's educational television—off and running.

And now, butting into the school marm's business are new fangled things called teaching machines.

Plunk one on a student's desk and he can teach himself—going along at his own rate of speed.

The machine even gives tests on the current lesson before allowing the pupil to dial a new lesson.

To worsen matters for a teacher jittery about technological advances in the academic world, the teaching machines have a hidden virtue.

They don't require the students to do homework!

All the wrinkles haven't been flattened by the experts engineering the teaching machines, but the "homework free" devices are being used experimentally in dozens of classrooms.

The most extensive use of the machines is in Roanoke, Va., classrooms. There, a major project recently was launched by Encyclopedia Britannica Films and Hollins College.

Maurice Mitchell, president of E.B.F., said in an interview that the teaching machines are more accurately called self-instruction devices.

But do they teach as well as a teacher? How do they work?

"During the school year that ended in June," Mitchell said, "a class of 34 eighth grade pupils in a Roanoke school were given beginning high school algebra, a course ordinarily offered in the ninth grade.

"The teaching was done by machines. The class finished the year-long course in half the usual time, with the students showing an excellent grasp of the material covered as indicated by national examination material.

"No lectures, classroom demonstration, textbooks or home work were used."

Mitchell said that in addition to taking the standard nationwide achievement test in algebra, the students took a test the Roanoke teachers themselves devised. They passed the second test with excellent results also.

Similar experiments are under way in the language subject areas, and the plan is to run the entire program of mathematics, language and other programmed subjects through two full academic-year cycles of testing and polishing during the coming year.

After the additional tests, the machines will be available to schools throughout the nation, Mitchell said.

"Speedier progress through the years of mathematics and language study on the part of the student and a dramatic extension of the capabilities of the classroom teacher are expected to be the first and most significant result of the widespread introduction of teaching machines," Mitchell said.

"Since the burden of the teaching is done by the machines and the student himself, the teacher is free to deal with individual students, and an enlargement of class size in these subjects seems entirely possible.

"Classes of 100-150 students, supervised by a competent teacher while they move through the process of self-instruction, are believed to be entirely feasible.

"This may represent a major breakthrough in the field of teacher shortages and swelling instructional costs."

Mitchell said it is believed possible to deliver an entire academic year of subject-matter to the student's desk, in the form of a teaching machine, at a cost of about $10 per student.

There are different kinds of teaching machines—but the basic operating principles vary little. By turning a dial or pressing a button, a student unrolls the lesson for the moment.

Say he's studying arithmetic. He doesn't just drill and memorize. He's taught to grasp the logical understanding of numbers' relationships. For example, in the multiplication tables for nine, the machinery cards might add the information that nine times a number is the same as ten times the number—minus the number.

At any rate, the material is presented, the student chews it over and then is tested on what the machine has taught him.

He can't go on to the next lesson until he has demonstrated—to the machine—that he has grasped the principles presented in the lesson.

The teaching machines have their roots in studies undertaken by experimental psychologists more than 30 years ago.

They are based on the premise that the "tutorial system"—one teacher to one pupil—is logically the best process for imparting knowledge and stimulating individual thinking in subject areas where the body of knowledge is a matter of general agreement—say mathematics, languages and the sciences.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm house, ordered custom made not sending my name and address and wall-to-wall carpet dress because I can't take a In May I signed a contract chance on having my husband for landscaping.

I'm up to my neck in debts, and dizzy from dodging bill collectors. I shake whenever the mail comes for fear Bennie will see a dunning letter. I hate to answer the telephone or the doorbell. All this worrying has made me afraid of my shadow.

I know you can't pay my bills, Ann, but if you have some advice on how to handle this mess I've made I'd be grateful.

—I. O. EVERYBODY

DEAR U. O.: Stop hiding. Face your creditors in person, by phone or by mail. Tell them you're in a temporary bind but that you intend to pay your bill in full, when you can.

List your debts on paper. Send each creditor something out of every pay check—no matter how small. It will demonstrate your good faith and you'll feel less like a deadbeat. And for heaven's sake, promise yourself you won't buy a nickel's worth that's not absolutely essential until you're in the clear.

DEAR ANN: The other day I looked out the window and saw the neighbor woman shaking my child. I ran out and asked her what she thought she was doing. She said, "Your Dickie is forever slapping my Harvey and I'm sick of seeing my little one take the worst of it." (They are both three, but my boy is larger.)

With that I hauled off and slapped her. I told her she'd get more than that if she ever laid a hand on my child again.

My husband hadn't been home five minutes when the neighbor's husband came over. He told my husband his wife was a nervous wreck and he had to call the doctor for her. He also said they could sue me for assault and battery.

I say they have no grounds because I didn't injure her. It was just a slap. My husband is mad at me. Please reply in print.

—N. S.

DEAR N. S.: The kids are three years old—what's YOUR excuse? You could be sued, even if it was just a slap. And your husband has a right to be mad: your behavior was uncivilized.

DEAR ANN: A woman who lives in our apartment treats her pet poodle better than most people treat their kids. The dog sleeps on a satin quilt, eats special food, gets his toenails painted and has professional baths.

I say this is a disgrace, when there are so many underfed people in the world. What do you say?—DIZZ-GUSTED

DEAR DIZZ: You can't give the underfed peoples of the world dog food, so don't confuse the issue.

I DO agree that nail-polish on pets is asinine and it's revolting to see dogs treated as if they were babies.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

How friendly are you in your everyday contacts with people?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Friendliness Is The Key To Others' Courtesy

The essence of friendliness is liking people. Do you like people—really? Not just those in your close, intimate circle, but the fellow human beings you see or meet as you go about your daily routine—the relative strangers, like the bus driver, butcher, tailor, elevator operators, clerks, the postman, and people in general.

Friendliness and neighborliness (even the anonymous kind that is found in big cities) are commodities with which the world has never been overburdened. And the curious thing is that those who most long to have such attitudes extended toward them are usually people who withhold any such expressions themselves.

If you find yourself unhappy much of the time, alone more than you like—if you have trouble getting courteous service everywhere you go, perhaps it's time for you to look at the face you display to the world of "just people." Your examination of your unconscious, habitual attitude may be the starting point for a new kind of life and the kind you wish to have. If your face reflects distrust, distaste, prejudice and irritation with people as a whole you'll know immediately that it's the lack of friendliness in your own heart that

'Albino' Tomato Found On Area Truck Farm

Theodore Stegmaier, truck crop farmer on Williams Road, has discovered an unusual tomato in his field.

Stegmaier brought the tomato, which has a white color, to Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, for inspection. Both men think that some faulty growth of the tomato's pigmentation has caused the "albino" tomato.

Stegmaier, who has been engaged in farming for many years, said it is the first such tomato he has even seen. It will be sent to the University of Maryland for a check to determine the reason for its lack of the usual red color.

PRR Strike Puts Pressure On Other Railroads, Air And Bus Lines In Md.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some sylvania station for the first time since it was built in 1912. Only 5,000 Marylanders took a forced vacation Thursday, and perry personnel entered to go their idleness put more pressure on workers in other lines of the transportation business.

Stations in Baltimore, Hagerstown and other points along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks were deserted. The fast-moving electric trains didn't turn a wheel as the system-wide strike of the Transport Workers Union brought the Pennsy to a standstill.

Bus stations became more crowded. Airline reservation clerks were busier than usual. But the flow of travelers didn't appear to be too inconvenienced by the railroaders' walkout.

Four pickets took up a vigil outside.

The approaching Labor Day weekend gave bus lines and air lines plenty to do as travelers turned to them for transportation.

G. J. Sills, superintendent of the Greyhound Terminal in Baltimore, said the outbound travel hadn't jumped too much but there was a marked increase in incoming passengers.

Trailways reported a "very heavy" increase in business and extra buses were put on.

Both lines expected to reach a peak beginning Friday night, the eve of the long holiday weekend. Eastern Airlines announced it would add additional flights to take care of the demand.

The Baltimore and Ohio, Western Maryland and Canton railroads were ready to handle any freight diversions.

At Hagerstown, some 350 to 400 Pennsylvania workers were idled, but a number of furloughed employees of the Western Maryland Railway were recalled as that line picked up some of Pennsy's freight business.

Ira B. Chambers, superintendent of the eastern division of the Western Maryland Railway, said his line is adding 10 to 15 freight trains a day for runs in Western Maryland and nearby areas of West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

He said some 20 engines have been leased from the Pennsylvania by the Western Maryland and Reading Railroads.

"We are trying to accommodate the shippers because we want the railroads to keep their business," Chambers said.

The old railroad station at Hagerstown was closed for the first time in its history and passengers on the Norfolk and Western Railway, which uses the Pennsy station, had to board and leave trains about a mile below the station.

In Washington, Rep. Thomas F. Johnson (D-Md.), who represents the Eastern Shore, asked President Eisenhower to step in and help settle the Pennsy strike to avoid a serious economic blow to the Delmarva Peninsula.

In a telegram, Johnson told the President the "poultry, seafood, canning and allied industries of the Eastern Shore, and the entire Delmarva Peninsula will suffer an economic blow of catastrophic proportions if this tragic strike continues."

In a House speech, Johnson said the Delmarva Peninsula faces a possible power shortage because the Pennsylvania hauled coal to the area for power plants.

D. C. Bus Depots Jammed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad strike, coupled with approaching Labor Day holiday weekend, created a landslide business Thursday at Washington's interurban bus stations.

Both Greyhound Lines and Trailways reported a tremendous increase in customers seeking transportation to New York and Philadelphia. The Pennsylvania provided the only rail passenger service to New York from Washington, an interchange point on north-south rail lines.

Trailways said it would approximately triple its daily trips between here and New York.

B. C. Pendleton, manager of the Greyhound Terminal, reported Greyhound has rented 50 additional buses and is arranging to get more to handle the sudden flood of business.

A special booth was provided at the Greyhound station just to sell tickets to Philadelphia and New York.

The airlines also reported their business was picking up as a result of the rail strike.

Paralyzed Man Flees Hospital

BALTIMORE (AP)—John Simmons, 37, paralyzed by a police bullet seven years ago, was the object of a police search Thursday after his escape from City Hospitals.

Simmons, a Negro wheelchair patient, was paralyzed from the waist down as the result of a gunfight with two policemen Aug. 8, 1953. The shooting occurred after the robbery of three liquor stores and taverns.

Robbery charges were placed against Simmons but never prosecuted because of his paralysis.

Other patients at the hospital said he dressed himself in street clothes, put on pajamas over the clothes, then wheeled himself out of his ward Wednesday night. His wheel chair and discarded pajamas were found later in the parking lot.

Dept. Of Education Asks Big Budget Hike

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Department of Education has submitted a budget request totaling two million dollars more than its current appropriation.

More than half the additional money would go to increase salaries and add instructors at the state's five teacher colleges.

The board requested $8,654,680 for operation of its headquarters, the vocational rehabilitation program and the teachers colleges in the next fiscal year. Its appropriation for the fiscal year ending next June 30 is $6,537,530.

The new request includes $1,101,043 more for instructors at the teacher colleges.

The board proposed recruiting 77 more teachers above the 304 now employed at the five colleges. It also will ask for a $4,000 to $10,000 range for teacher salaries, compared to the current scale of $3,850 to $8,470.

Garbage Collectors Continue On Strike

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — The strike of refuse collectors appeared to be stalemated Thursday. They voted not to return to their jobs until they receive concessions on wages, hours and working conditions.

Their employer, the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, also was holding to its position that no requests would be considered until the men returned to work.

The strike affects all of the 55,000 homes in the urban sections of Montgomery County served by the WSSC.

Agee's selection to replace Victor E. Bludorn who resigned in May, was reported Thursday from the fraternity's national headquarters.

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Why has the stock market made such a sharp turnaround after running up an extended series of gains?

Joseph E. Granville of the investment firm, E. F. Hutton & Co., said Wednesday that technical indications provided the timing but also are underscoring deteriorating fundamentals.

He expects the Dow Jones industrial average to continue to decline because of these technical reasons: the spearheading weakness in the rails; the improved quality of downside leadership, and the absence of climactic selling signs.

"Fundamentally, the reasons for market weakness are of parallel importance," he said.

"In the last few days these things came to light: Canadian unemployment rises contraseasonally; reductions in capital spending reported; business failures continue to rise; new incorporations fall; price of copper is cut; price cutting in textiles is reported; dividend omissions start in the steel group; new gold losses are reported; Treasury bill yields begin to move counter to the easing trend; new weakness in commodity prices is observed; nervousness develops over high automobile inventories."

Conditions in August can be taken as a forewarning that business will "stay bad until next spring at the earliest," says economist Elliot Janeway.

The president of Janeway Research Corp. cites the drop in auto sales this month as "an ominous omen for September, which, even in a good year, is to be approached warily as a month of testing."

"The normal September expectation is that business must be either good or improving if it is to prevent the stock market from weakening," he says. "And business almost always does pick up from August in September."

"This year it will be difficult not to, but any improvement will be less than seasonal, and will fall far short of generating the momentum needed to reverse the slide in corporate earnings."

A. M. Kidder & Co. is of the opinion that the short trend in the stock market probably will reverse itself rather soon.

The use of women's names to designate hurricanes has dramatized them in popular imagination.

Can Man Don Wings And Fly? Is 7th Inning Lucky?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Can man don wings and fly? Is the seventh inning lucky in baseball? These questions and others are answered in the news of science at work:

Wings For Icarus

Two University of Chile scientists believe that man may be able to use his own muscular power to fly.

New ideas and materials—metals and plastics—can be used to solve some of the engineering problems, say E. Guerra and B. Gunther in the British Journal, Nature.

In designing man's wings, it would be wise to pattern the machinery after the natural models—birds and insects, they suggest.

Australian Sun Burn

Aborigines—primitive natives of Australia—are born a pinkish yellow color. But in a few weeks they darken in the sun, an Australian scientist says.

Usually the darkening stops at a deep brown—but some natives living in the sun of the Australian desert darken even more, reports

Prof. A. A. Abbie of the University of Adelaide.

When protected from the sun—in fat creases or when clothing is worn habitually, skin color fades in some cases back to the original pinkish yellow. When such cases suddenly receive undue exposure to the sun, they may become severely sunburned.

Aborigines are also often born fair headed—flaxen to red haired. Hair also darkens with age.

An Ear To The Stars

The United States should build a 2,000-foot radio telescope to get a better look at the stars, galaxies and planets, an astronomer says.

It may cost some $100 million to build this key to the universe, says Otto Struve of the National Radio Astronomy Observatory.

But it would allow U.S. astronomers to study the near stars—the closest 24 million million miles away—with a precision now possible only in studies of our own star, the sun, a paltry 93 million miles away.

Seventh Inning Stretch

Is there anything lucky about the seventh inning of a baseball game? There's a national fable poorest. The lucky seventh and that it may be the turning point dramatic ninth are very ordinary of the game.

Definitely not, says George R. Lindsey, a Canadian defense statistician. He studied the score by the innings of 782 major and minor league games.

In run production the first and third innings were the most productive. The second inning was the pounds.

A cubic foot of lithium, the third lightest metal, weighs about 30 pounds.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nine years of the American female's life produce the most ulcers.

The ulcer-years, surprisingly, aren't during the child-bearing and child-rearing span of life. They are between the ages of 45 and 54 — the years when the offspring are getting degrees, married and having children of their own.

Uncle Sam's health sleuths turned up this information during a U. S. national health survey concerning ulcers.

The statisticians found that during the ulcer-prone years of life, 17.5 of every 1,000 women have an ulcer.

In every age group, however, ulcers were found most prevalent among men. The peak ulcer period for the males is during years 35-44. In this age group, the health detectives figure 42.5 of every 1,000 men have ulcers.

For another view on the ulcer situation, experts at the Health Insurance Institute fed statistics from the ulcer survey into its calculators. The institute found that ulcers today are four times as common among Americans now as they were in the 1930's—depression days.

But this seeming quadrupling of the ulcer rate is attributed in part to more accurate methods of diagnosis through wider use of X-ray equipment, the institute reported.

There's an off-hand chance, for example, that ulcers were just as prevalent during the depression—but that most of them were never diagnosed. That is, they went down on the medical history card as pains in the stomach or upset stomach.

While ulcer incidence goes up where females are concerned around age 45, the statisticians reported that the frequency of ulcers among men declines after age 45.

The fact-finders also said that most ulcer victims have their ulcers under control most of the time. Eighty-five per cent of the persons nursing ulcers told the researchers they had no limitation on normal activity as a result of the ailment.

Most of the rest—15 per cent—were limited in outside activities or in the amount or kind of major activity they could enter into without risking an ulcer flare-up.

And 3.3 per cent of the sufferers said their ulcers were so bad that they were unable to carry on major activity. Their ulcers benched them.

The statisticians said that the nation's 2.4 million ulcer victims lose an estimated 12 million days from work during an average year.

On an average work day, this figures out to about 49,000 persons not showing up in the office or factory because of ulcers.

Not officially counted in the absenteeism are the housewives who must leave their dishes stacked in the sink and ignore unmade beds because their ulcers are kicking up a fuss.

Man Who 'Died' Last Year Now Feeling 'Fine'

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—A man here who suffered a heart attack and was pronounced dead by two doctors last year, today is alive and feeling "fine."

Dr. Harry Einhorn and Dr. S. Paul Rose pronounced Dr. Einhorn's father, Max Einhorn, 76, dead after he had stopped breathing and his heart had stopped.

A half hour later they learned differently.

A nurse's aide entered the room and saw his eyes flutter and his arm move.

The two doctors rushed back to the room and resumed treatment.

Dr. Einhorn said he and Dr. Rose were uncertain whether their first attempts to revive the elderly man five minutes after he was believed dead saved his life. Dr. Rose said he struck him sharply on the chest to stimulate heart action.

Dr. Einhorn said a person does not die until he has suffered irreversible brain damage from lack of oxygen.

Even if the heart and lungs stop functioning, he said, a person may live if the brain can get them going again.

"But more remarkable than his survival is the recovery he has made since then," Dr. Einhorn stated. "Brain damage or major paralysis would be expected in such cases."

"He gets dizzy when he walks and there is a weakness in his right arm. But that is likely to happen to anyone his age."

Although Max Einhorn experienced death, he does not remember anything about it.

American Girl To Join Bolshoi Ballet

MOSCOW (AP)—An American girl, Anastasia Stevens, 18, is joining the Bolshoi Ballet.

Miss Stevens, known to everyone as Stacia, was hired Wednesday. She is the first American to work for the state-run ballet, considered by many critics the world's leading dance organization.

"It's only in the corps de ballet but it's a wonderful chance," she said.

Her father, Edmund Stevens, born in Denver, came to Moscow in the 30s and studied at Moscow University. There he met and married Nina A. Bondarenko, a collective farm girl from Siberia.

Stevens went on to become a Pulitzer Prize correspondent. While he was covering the Mediterranean front in World War II,

Mrs. Stevens took refuge in the United States. There she picked up a degree from Wellesley College and Stacia was born. All the family, including a brother who is a New York architect, are American citizens. The United States.

B&O Merger Is Expected To Help Cumberland Area

Any merger which results from the current negotiations between the B&O, New York Central and C&O railroads is not expected to have any adverse effect on the B&O operations here.

Unofficial reports from railroad people are that Cumberland by virtue of its geographical location and main line connections east and west will probably benefit.

The Cumberland Division of the B&O handles more freight and tonnage than any other division on the system and main line traffic merges here from the northwest and southwest.

Location of the multi-million dollar yards in South End is another factor in favor of Cumberland's position in any new organization which might result from merger of the C&O or New York Central or both with the B&O.

Meanwhile, Alfred E. Perlman, president of the New York Central, told a group of Baltimoreans that merger of the B&O with his company would "very much improve" the port of Baltimore. Perlman is angling for a three-way merger with his company, the B&O and C&O Railroad. The latter road is opposing the three-way program and hopes to gain full control of the B&O.

Perlman said too many times he has observed the more powerful railroad permitting the other to fall into bankruptcy and cited several instances. He said the C&O is not willing to assume any of the debt of the B&O, which would have a tendency to make B&O bondholders less secure.

Perlman recommended that steps be taken immediately for

Meeting Is Planned

The Police and Firemen's Welfare Association will meet next Thursday at 8 p. m. at Shaw's Cafe.

the three lines to merge rather than arrange an exchange of stock which would only delay and continue to complicate matters.

The speaker expressed a sincere belief that the three railroad presidents—Walter J. Tuohy, of the C&O, Howard E. Simpson, of the B&O, and himself—involved wanted the same ultimate solution and merger, but the difference now was in the method of reaching that end.

Tuohy has been adamant in his objections to the Central entering the picture at all until after the initial steps had been completed for the C&O to assume control of the B&O stock.

Simpson, on the other hand, has been trying to bring the two outsiders together, as he was directed by his board. He also has stated repeatedly that a three-way merger would be the best for the B&O and all concerned. However, the C&O is financially more stable than either of the others.

The three-way merger also is vital to provide an Eastern competitor to the Pennsylvania "empire," he said. He described the board of directors of the B&O as being "perceptive" when they

Woodmen Circle Plans Convention

Registration will begin at 6 p. m. Cumberland and Swanton drill teams will exemplify ritualistic work. Mary Jane Harvey, Swanton, is district president.

A previous report from national headquarters said the conclave would be held in Swanton.

called for the three-way merger "because they realized what the Pennsylvania Railroad would do to Baltimore and the State of Maryland."

The Pennsylvania, with which the Central had discussed possible affiliation in 1957-1958, is threatening to dominate the East by already controlling or being in the process of controlling "half of the railroad systems in the East."

"Unless other railroads merge in some way to offset the overpowering strength of the Pennsylvania, we will not have a balanced competitive system in the East."

In working out the charter for the merger, Perlman said it definitely would pay to study the Baltimore and Ohio charter of 1827 thoroughly and see if it shouldn't be the predominant one inasmuch as it allows for complete tax exemptions in Maryland.

The New Yorker also said at the press conference that he definitely would be sympathetic toward keeping at least part of the name of the "Baltimore and Ohio" in the final name of the merged railroad.

"It is only common decency that part of that name should be preserved," he added, "for after all it was the forerunner of the railroad system of the United States. My sentiment would be to preserve it."

Railroad officials said the train was delayed in the Youngstown, Ohio area when trouble developed with the motive power of the diesel locomotive.

Hamburgers, Hot Dogs First On List For Teen-Agers

What would you choose if you were asked to make up a menu which almost any teen-ager would consider ideal? You would not be far off the track if you were to pick hot dogs or hamburgers as the top choices of youngsters from eight to 18 years reported in the 1960 National Children's Preference Study of the American Hobby Federation, a non-profit education organization.

What you probably would not think to include would be some things like spinach or carrots. Yet most of the youngsters rated them second and third on their list. These findings show that young people can be credited with more nutritional sense than is usually accorded them. Who could quarrel with the food value for instance of menus such as these:

Hamburger Balls On Potato Chips

(Serves 4-6)
1 lb. hamburger
1 medium onion, minced fine
1 egg beaten
2 tsp. chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon caraway seeds
1 7-oz. bag potato chips
(Reserve large chips)

Crush potato chips very fine minutes. Cut frankfurters into with a rolling pin. Mix hamburger, pieces about one inch long. Add to egg, and seasonings. No salt is sauce. Simmer for 5 to 10 minutes.

Franks In Hot Sauce

1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1/2 cup chili sauce
1/2 cup chopped onions
1 beef bouillon cube
2 tablespoons chopped celery leaves
1 lb. frankfurters

Combine all ingredients except frankfurters and cook for ten minutes. Cut frankfurters into with a rolling pin. Mix hamburger, pieces about one inch long. Add to egg, and seasonings. No salt is sauce. Simmer for 5 to 10 minutes.

A New Pie To Star
On Your Present Menus

Milk, eggs and peanut butter currently appear on the United States Department of Agriculture "plentiful foods" list. Put them all together in a pie. The resulting recipe makes a new and different custard-type pie of unusually fine flavor. It is not too sweet, and its texture is light.

To decorate the top of the pie, cut a pattern in the form of a star from cardboard. Cover the cardboard with aluminum foil. Place lightly atop the cooled pie and spoon sweetened whipped non-fat dry milk between the points of the star, leaving the center area free. Gently lift the star pattern from the top.

Here is the recipe for this new Custard Peanut-Mince Pie and a simple star pattern to help you to garnish the pie at serving time.

Custard Peanut-Mince Pie

(Makes one 9-inch pie)

1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell
3 eggs, separated
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 cup cream-style peanut butter
1 cup liquified nonfat dry milk
1 cup ready-to-use mince meat

Beat egg yolks with sugar, salt and vanilla until thick and lemon colored. Gradually blend in peanut butter and liquified dry milk.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Fold into peanut butter-custard mixture. (Mixture should look lumpy.) Spread mince meat on bottom of pie shell. Pour custard mixture over mince meat.

Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 25 minutes. Completely cover top of pie with aluminum foil. Turn oven up to 400°F. Continue baking pie for 15 minutes. Cool to room temperature; serve immediately or chill before serving. If desired, top with whipped sweetened non-fat dry milk and sprinkle with a few coarsely chopped peanuts.

Simple Summer Supper

For a light and easy supper or dinner on warm evenings, a Cheese-Bacon Pie will delight your family. It's an excellent main dish, and preparation is simplicity itself. It takes only about 30 minutes to bake the pie, giving you extra time to enjoy your family or guests.

One recipe utilizes a package of well-aged sharp flavored cheese slices. A six-ounce package is ample for a pie which will serve six. For your pastry shell, use a packaged pie crust mix.

Nutritious and filling, Cheese-Bacon Pie served with a tossed green salad and glasses of chilled milk, followed by fruit, ice cream or sherbet will be a "repeat" dinner in your household during the warm months ahead.

Cheese-Bacon Main Dish

- 1 (9-inch) pastry shell, unbaked
 - 1 package (8 slices) American Cheese
 - 4 eggs, beaten
 - 1 cup Evaporated Milk
 - 1 cup water
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 4 teaspoon black pepper
 - 6 strips cooked bacon, well drained
 - Onion slices
- Cut cheese slices in half; separate slices and arrange in bottom of pastry shell. Blend together eggs, evaporated milk, water, salt and pepper. Pour over cheese. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 30 minutes or, until knife inserted near center of pie comes out clean. If desired, garnish with crisp bacon slices and freshly sliced onion rings.

Cooking frozen vegetables is very simple. They do not need defrosting before cooking; they

Plan For Plum Jelly Now

While plums are ripe, sweet and fragrant, now is the time to make delicious Plum Jelly that the family enjoys so much all winter long. With today's modern, short-boil recipe so easy to use, there's no need to spend time and energy making jelly the old-fashioned way.

PLUM JELLY

Yield: about 12 medium glasses (6 lbs. jelly)

- 5½ cups juice (about 5 lbs. ripe plums)
- 7½ cups sugar
- 1 box (1½ oz.) powdered fruit pectin

First, prepare the juice. Crush about 5 pounds fully ripe plums. (Do not peel or pit.) Add 1½ cups water; bring to a boil and simmer covered, 10 minutes. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 5½ cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the jelly. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powder-

Frozen Vegetables In Stew

Use frozen vegetables in Autumn stews for added color and flavor. You need this touch of green with the carrots, turnips, potatoes, and onions: frozen green beans, frozen lima beans, or frozen green peas. Turn into the stew just 15 minutes before serving and let them cook in the stew. The green vegetables provide all the garnish you need.

For Outdoor Dining Iced Tea By Pitcherful

If you're ever in a quandary as to what will have appetite appeal for your family on a hot summer night, rest assured that a menu including hamburgers and iced tea will put you on the right track. Just vary the basic recipes to make the dinner plans more attractive and interesting.

Instead of making huge, thick hamburgers, make very thin patties — two per serving. Place layers of relish, onion and tomato slices between them inside toasted buns. For easy handling and to keep them hot, wrap them in aluminum foil pockets. Add to the menu a tasty casserole of instant Spanish rice mix which you can make in a matter of minutes. Place a pitcher full of tinkling cold, refreshing iced tea on the table and you'll be ready to meet the challenge of waning, wilting appetites.

Iced tea happens to be one of the few summer beverages that doesn't impair appetites because it leaves no sweet cloying after-taste. Because it is nonfattening and non-filling, the family can drink all the iced tea they want. And that's a good thing because on a hot summer day the body loses from 2-1/2 - 4 quarts of water through perspiration, and it's important to replace that fluid. Fortunately, the following open saucepan method of making iced tea is ideal for preparing batches of iced tea which will retain its thirst-quenching, pick-up qualities for several hours. (If a sediment known as "clouding" occurs, you can restore tea's amber-clear color with a little boiling water.)

So, from a pleasure point of view, as well as health, it's a good idea to keep iced tea by the pitcherful handy (or picnic jug) and enjoy iced tea more often — when you want it, and when you need it.

ICED TEA — OPEN SAUCEPAN METHOD

(Makes 10-12 servings)

Bring 1 quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove it from the heat. Immediately add 1 cup loose tea (or 15 teabags). Brew the tea four minutes. Stir and strain it into a pitcher holding 1 quart of cold water. Serve in ice filled glasses with lemon and sugar to taste.

grill. Place layers of patties, onions, relish, and chili sauce in toasted, buttered buns. For easy handling, and to keep them warm wrap them in aluminum foil pockets. Serve with instant Spanish rice mix, made according to package directions.

the fresher refresher

Only mister mustard succeeds in being such a delightful contradiction of emphatically hot and delicately mild. (Its secret: in the 20-page recipe spirited from Dijon, France.) Try it on sandwiches, meat, cheese, salads. This is a new taste in mustard. Emphatically different. Emphatically wonderful. Get it in the open refrigerator section of your food market. Mathematicians, MDs Combine Efforts To Discover Causes Of Cerebral Palsy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Medicine and math are merging in a government project to pinpoint the causes of cerebral palsy.

Statisticians are joining white-coated medical men in the attempt to find patterns in the development and growth of cerebral palsied and mentally retarded children.

They believe discovery of "clusters of occurrences" among the thousands of cases being studied will narrow the search for causes of and preventive measures against the illnesses.

The study thus far is based on the social, economic and medical backgrounds of 50,000 pregnant women. Additional study will center on the pregnancy as it progresses, the delivery of the child and its early growth and development.

Little is known about the specific nature of cerebral palsy. It is a physical condition resulting from injury to brain cells controlling the muscles. Neither contagious nor hereditary, it causes irregular gait, guttural speech, and difficulty in developing muscle control. It may impair learning ability although many children with cerebral palsy have above average intelligence.

No cure is in sight for the 550,000 afflicted Americans.

Working together to solve the cerebral palsy mystery are hospitals, private firms and government institutions. The project, financed by the government, is coordinated by the Perinatal Research Branch of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, Silver Spring, Md. The institute is part of the Public Health Service's National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md.

The project, planned as a five-year study, had been in its pre-test phase until last January. For the first two years, data forms were prepared for testing at 15 hospitals. These medical teaching hospitals, located from Portland, Ore., to Providence, R.I., are participating under government financial grants.

Vocabulary differences proved White House announced Thursday an initial problem. What meant that President Eisenhower will one thing to a woman questioned go to the Industrial College of the Armed Forces at Ft. McNair one Tuesday to take part in dedication ceremonies for a new academic building.

interviewed were Puerto Rican, so the specialists devised a form in Spanish.

The paperwork only begins with data-gathering interviews and observations. The confidential forms are coded and passed on by statisticians to research obstetricians and pediatricians for interpretation.

Private firms and educational institutions also contribute to the project. One firm is developing antigens for studying the blood collected from a woman several times during her pregnancy. Antigens are proteins injected into the body causing it to produce antibodies. Several cooperating medical schools are doing research into the diseases of the nervous system.

From mathematician to M.D., the collaborators hope that their collection and analysis of data will put them on the track which can bring new hope for victims of cerebral palsy and related disorders.

'MISS AMERICA, 1957'—Before leaving for Atlantic City to host the crowning of the next "Miss America" Sept. 10, the 1955 contest winner, the former Lee Ann Meriwether, poses for a family portrait in Hollywood with her husband, TV actor Frank Aletter, and 11-week-old daughter Kyle Kathleen. The baby will accompany her mother (following in her mother's footsteps?) to Atlantic City.

Vesuvius May Blow Its Top Again This Year Or Next

By HERBERT G. SPENCER

ROME (UPI) — The Italian "boot" stands today under the threat of a volcanic hot-foot which is no joke.

The Roman city of Pompeii is centuries dead and buried by ash, its skeleton now laid bare for the amateur archaeologist and curious tourist to study.

But Neapolitans still remember just 54 years ago when Mount Vesuvius erupted again, turning day into night and killing 200 persons in a church praying that the eruption might cease.

Volcanologists say if Vesuvius sticks to her shaky schedule—the last eruption was in 1944—she may blow her top again this year or next.

Stromboli Is Active

Only recently, man-killing Mt. Etna in Sicily exploded with the biggest blast ever recorded at the volcano with modern instruments.

The island volcano of Stromboli, north of Sicily, is continually active, although its close neighbor, Vulcano, has been dormant for 64 years.

But sleep means nothing to an Italian volcano, often as unpredictable as a Roman love affair.

The citizens of Pompeii found that out the hard way when Vesuvius, thought to be dormant, erupted Aug. 24, 79 B.C.

Hot pebbles of pumice-stone the size of navy beans showered down on the city, burying it to a depth of seven to eight feet. Then a rain of volcanic ash mixed with condensed steam from the crater buried Pompeii three feet deeper.

Thousands Are Killed

Most of the city's 20,000-30,000 inhabitants managed to escape, but some 2,000 perished. You can see startlingly life-like casts of some of their bodies—made of the soft lava which buried them—in a museum at Pompeii.

Vesuvius continued to erupt down through the centuries. Seven eruptions were recorded through the Middle Ages until 1500.

The volcano went to sleep for 131 years, then exploded with new fury in 1631, killing 3,000 persons. There were several eruptions in the 18th Century and a dozen recorded in the last century. Lava flows buried villages on the slopes.

In 1906, one of the greatest eruptions ever recorded hurled ash clouds 12,000 feet into the air. The streets and houses of Naples were covered with two inches of ash, and heavier falls nearer the crater collapsed buildings, including the packed church in which 200 died.

Dust Hits Paris

Volcanic dust from Vesuvius fell as far away as Paris and Constantinople.

Another spectacular eruption of Vesuvius in 1944 showered ash on Allied and German troops locked in the Battle of Cassino 60 miles to the north. The glow of the volcano's crater provided a beacon for Allied night bombers.

Volcanologist Giuseppe Imbò said there is little statistical data on Vesuvius's eruptions to make firm predictions, but noted the volcano becomes active every 14-17 years.

According to that schedule, Vesuvius could blow its top again within the year.

Over in Sicily, Mount Etna is more predictable, more active and a bigger killer.

An estimated million persons have lost their lives in Etna eruptions and accompanying earthquakes since the volcano's activity was first recorded by the Greek poet Pindar in 476 B.C.

Etna Is Tallest

The 10,742-foot volcano, Europe's tallest, has erupted hundreds of times down through the centuries. One explosion in 1693 was followed by an earthquake which killed up to an estimated 100,000 persons.

During this century Etna's eruptions have been less destructive, although lava flow from the crater to the sea destroyed one village, and partially devastated another in 1928.

July's big explosion on Etna, according to volcanologist Alfred Rittmann, was the largest ever recorded.

Since the July 17 blast, the level of magma — molten lava — inside the crater has risen.

Peasants on the fertile slopes of Mount Etna are casting fearful glances toward the smoking crater.

They know Italy's volcanos, like the weather and love, are often dangerously unpredictable.

PAINFUL

NEW YORK (UPI) — In New York's Bellevue hospital, a tiny, two-day old baby squirms violently in his crib. He has trouble breathing, seems hungry — but often ignores a bottle. He screams, cries and is nauseated, restless and irritable.

His problem? His mother was a drug addict — and he's suffering the tortures of withdrawal.

The problem of narcotic addiction among newborn infants is not new but it's become more and more of a problem in recent years. Drs. Annabelle Vincow and Alvin Hackel report in the current issue of GP, the journal of the American Academy of General Practice. During a recent nine month period, the doctors have treated 12 drug-addicted infants at Bellevue.

Vermont is the only one of the New England states without a seacoast.

Appeals Board Will Rule On Lockout Case

The Board of Appeals of the Maryland Department of Employment Security will hand down a decision soon on the appeal filed for a C&A Gas Company worker for benefits during the recent work stoppage.

Joseph P. Healy, Baltimore, board chairman, announced, following a hearing in City Hall yesterday, that the decision will be made in writing next week.

An appeal in behalf of all 80 employees who were affected by the lockout from August 1 to August 27 was filed by George R. Hughes Jr., local attorney, with Floyd J. Elliott, a C&A truck driver, as the test case for the members of Local 419, Utility Workers Union.

A special claims examiner denied the men unemployment compensation when he ruled that work was stopped due to a labor dispute.

Hughes based part of his case on the declaration of policy stated in the state unemployment compensation law whereby benefits are due those who have no work "through no fault of their own."

He also contended that the service and operations of the company continued during the lockout period, with supervisory personnel taking care of maintenance work.

James A. Avirett, attorney for the gas company, pointed out that there was almost no dispute on the facts in the case as presented by four witnesses during the two-hour long hearing.

The question of the case is whether or not the union members are eligible for benefits, he said. Under Maryland law, the stoppage of work due to a labor dispute disqualifies men for benefits, he added.

A lockout, he maintained, is part of a labor dispute.

Ray Newbold, director of employee relations, for the Pittsburgh Group Companies of the Columbia Gas System, testified that at different times during the negotiations the company offered to renew the old contract.

Newbold testified that the union has the power to call a strike and put economic pressure on a company, and the company has the same right to call a lockout for the same economic pressure on the worker.

Newbold spoke of the fear the company had in regard to a wild-cat strike when equipment and tools would be left strewn all over the utility's property, and service interrupted to hospitals and other like customers.

But under cross examination by Hughes, Mr. Newbold stated that the company had never had any trouble with Local 419, and that no strike had been experienced here.

The employee relations director also admitted under questioning by James N. Phillips, general counsel for the ESB, that he never knew until yesterday that the union had taken a strike vote early in the negotiations.

Elliott was the main witness in his behalf. As a member of the negotiating committee, he recalled the various points in the history of the negotiations.

The union agreed to work after the contract had expired, and at no time did the union threaten to strike, he added. Even after the company informed the union members there was a lockout, the union again offered to continue working during negotiations, he maintained.

Also testifying were Carl C. Robbins, Cumberland District manager for C&A, and DeWarren O'Neal, president of Local 419.

Other members of the board here for the case were Carlton Pyles, Prince Georges County, and James M. Barry, Baltimore County.

Michael Luciano, Baltimore, conducted the hearing in his role as the board's executive secretary.

Doors Snap Closed In Council Room

There was a "lockout" yesterday in City Hall's council chambers during a hearing on a lockout, but it was unintentional.

Some observers at the unemployment compensation benefit appeal case concerning C&A Gas Company and members of Local 419, Utility Workers Union, who arrived late found the doors of the second floor room closed.

But the board of appeals of the State Department of Employment Security did not know when they closed them at the start of the hearing that the doors had snap locks on them.

After Francis A. Kenney, local ESB agency manager, couldn't get in, the situation became known and was remedied.

Further Need For Loans To Students

At one time there were only two ways in which higher education was financed: cash and scholarships. Today, there are three: cash, scholarships and student loans.

The latter are becoming more plentiful and more and more students of higher learning are pursuing their vocational preparation in the knowledge that the degree must be paid for after graduation.

There is a rising demand for loan funds and scholarships which is not being met. Mounting education costs and increasing percentage of high school graduating classes pursuing further scholastic attainments are placing a heavy strain on available funds. Many who now plan to go to college do not have the money. Some will be discouraged by their inability to raise the money and will cancel their plans.

Others will be fortunate enough to find an affluent student loan fund available at their chosen institution. Or perhaps a scholarship to defray at least part of the cost.

The federal government has established a loan fund under the auspices of the National Defense Education Act. Federal underwriting of private education costs is not the most desirable solution. It introduces the element of control from a source far removed from the interests of the institution.

Private funds administered by the college or scholarships from industry and other private sources are preferable. These sources are contributing more to education than ever, but the population engaged in higher education is growing at a faster pace.

Catching up with the need is an investment of the highest importance. It is one on which the dividends compound themselves each succeeding generation.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky National Purpose

A phrase, national purpose, comes into being and it is immediately picked up until it grows aged and outworn. But today, everybody uses this phrase, even the candidates for the Presidency.

What can be meant by national purpose? It is as though we were a monolithic state, a homogeneous people, with a single concept, let us say, of world conquest or conversely, of world peace. But truth to tell, we are not like that at all. We are a very mixed people, of many origins, of diverse regional attitudes, of many ideas and purposes. The idea of a national purpose, of a national goal, of a national target is entirely novel to our people, although there is a very firm statement of a national philosophy, issued before we became a nation. Vice President Nixon takes his theme for the national purpose from the Preamble of the Constitution and he states it to be:

"Form a more perfect union. Establish justice. Insure domestic tranquility. Provide for the common defense. Promote the general welfare. Secure the blessings of liberty for ourselves and posterity."

The first of these, "Form a more perfect union," is not transcendental. We fought the War Between the States to solve that problem by demonstrating that a state once it became part of the United States could not leave it. During the Roosevelt Administration, some of the New Dealers thought that states might just as well be abolished and the country divided into rational regions. Nothing came of that.

As for the next four ideas, all governments hold to them more or less, even the most unsatisfactory dictatorships. However, there are many different views as to what is good for the people because nobody really is sure. For instance, Harry Hopkins picked on the phrase, "Promote the general welfare" and tried to establish a social worker's welfare state, in which each individual would be looked after from the cradle to the grave. The looking after would be done by a vast horde of bureaucrats who would control the lives of the people.

As for the blessings of liberty, we are witnessing now the excesses to which those who are not ready for liberty can go. Cuba and Congo are only the worst examples. Liberty without responsibility, duty, respect, self-restraint can readily become anarchy.

A much better guide for an American is the Preamble to the Declaration of Independence which includes two basic propositions:

- 1. That every people is entitled to a government of its own choice;
- 2. That man is endowed with unalienable rights which are his by the grace of nature's God and nature's law.

The Declaration of Independence is written in philosophic terms. Its appeal is universal. It is not limited to any one country or any one people. It speaks in humanistic language but associates itself with the Natural Law which is God's revelation of a lawful and orderly life to man.

If the United States has a purpose, this then is its purpose, to establish that by accepting the Natural Law man can live in liberty in an orderly and lawful society; that nations need not be governed by tyrants or dictators or kings or even by democratic methods, but that each people that sets itself up as an independent state has the right to devise and select its own form of government and that no other nation has a right in a decent world to interfere with that choice.

Most of those who have written on the national purpose have avoided discussing the subject altogether. Between the War of 1812 and the Dred Scott Decision, this country was moving in the direction of nationalism. But the War Between the States established that the original concept of Federalism still prevailed in many minds. This idea is currently called "states' rights," and is being rejuvenated in the South over the Negro question.

The balance between the states and the federal government has become upset. The result is that as the federal government grows stronger, the local governments grow weaker. This is even more true of municipalities which suffer from the extension of power and authority by both the federal and state governments.

Henry Luce's concept of an American purpose, which started these discussions, is like his former idea of an American era. It is idealistic and beautiful but in reality there is no such thing.

Has The 'Age Of Chivalry' In Politics Passed?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Maybe the "age of chivalry" in national politics has passed. Time was when a Presidential candidate canceled speaking engagements when his opponent was incapacitated.

A dramatic example occurred 48 years ago when Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey was running for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket against Theodore Roosevelt, progressive Republican, and President William Howard Taft, regular Republican. An assassin's bullet wounded Mr. Roosevelt on the right side of his body, and he was hospitalized for a brief period. Mr. Wilson promptly announced that he would cancel all speaking engagements. He said: "Mr. Taft has at no time taken an active part in the campaign, and I have no desire to be the single candidate on the stump engaged against no active antagonist."

The shooting episode occurred in Milwaukee on Monday, October 14, and on Tuesday Governor Wilson said that he would keep only the speaking engagements that had already been arranged for Wednesday and Friday of that week and that he would not speak again afterwards until Mr. Roosevelt was able to take an active part in the campaign. Big meetings in New York and Brooklyn for that weekend were given up by Mr. Wilson. Mr. Roosevelt appreciated the action but insisted that Mr. Wilson continue speaking. Actually, "T. R." resumed campaigning on October 30 with a speech at Madison Square Garden. So the recess lasted about 13 days — very important days, too, since they were in the latter part of the campaign, with the election taking place on November 5.

Mr. Wilson's attitude was regarded as sportsmanlike and gallant.

There has always been, however, some question as to whether lengthy and continuous campaigning is ever as important as the candidates and their managers think it is. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in 1936 and 1940 and 1944, followed the strategy of letting his opponent in each campaign do the bulk of the stumping while he himself concentrated on rebuttals in the last two or three weeks before election day.

Doubts as to the value of stump-speaking have arisen from time to time. Thus, for instance, in 1920 Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, Democrat, toured the country from coast to coast while his opponent, Senator Warren G. Harding, stayed almost the entire time on the front porch of his home in Marion, Ohio, making a few speeches there. Senator Harding won the Presidency by the biggest electoral vote anybody had ever attained up to that time. The people voted primarily against the party in power, irrespective of the eloquent and thoughtful speeches of Governor Cox.

Looking back still further, it will be noted that William Jennings Bryan, Democrat, was one of the most colorful orators in American politics. He was defeated for the Presidency three times—in 1896, 1900 and 1908. In each campaign his opponent made fewer speeches than he did and took fewer trips, but won anyhow. Maybe Vice President Nixon, now hospitalized with an injured knee, will benefit by a two-week recess in the stumping excursion. Maybe Senator Kennedy would also benefit if he took a rest for the next fortnight, though he has just announced that he will begin on Friday an 18-day speaking tour in 17 states.

In these days of television and radio, there isn't as much need for the candidates to take extensive campaign trips in person. The political managers, however, do not agree with this. They want their candidate to put in personal appearances so as to attract local attention and to afford an opportunity for street demonstrations and parades, all of which presumably stir up voter enthusiasms.

The way a candidate looks and his speaking manner may seem to be important, but nobody has ever proved that they really are. It is rather the impression created by the party in power during the previous four or eight years which causes many voters to make up their minds, either affirmatively or negatively, long before election day.

This would seem to furnish a logical yardstick of measurement for the present campaign. If there is a tide of deep discontent running, due to either economic adversity or unemployment in enough areas of the country to swing a large number of electoral votes against the party in power, then the opposition party will win by a landslide. If, on the other hand, the public is in a state of relative contentment on the economic side and does not want to see a change in administration because of a delicate international situation, then the party in power will win by a landslide.

Campaign speeches may clarify the basic issues for many citizens, but a decisive influence one way or the other doubtless has already affected a majority of the voters. The speeches of the next two months may not materially affect the result at all.

Ellender Collects Trophies Instead Of Working On Farm Legislation

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico was talking to Senate colleagues the other day about failure to pass a farm bill despite the plight of several million small farmers. Anderson, who used to be Secretary of Agriculture, pointed out that the key trouble was the chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana, who has been off on junkets around the world when he should have been home passing farm legislation.

The Senate is like a sieve as far as gossip is concerned, and Anderson's remarks immediately leaked back to Ellender, who was fit to be tied.

Real fact is, however, that Sen. Anderson understated the case.

If the farmers of the nation could walk through Sen. Ellender's office they would understand why he has been too busy to write a farm bill.

For his office is nothing short of a museum of relics collected on trips to almost every country in the world — all at the taxpayers' expense. Here are just some of the trophies the Senator has collected:

A bundle of Indian arrows from Peru; a gaily decorated elephant given him by Pakistan schoolchildren in appreciation of his expected vote for U. S. foreign aid (the children did not know that Ellender is the chief gutter of foreign aid); several other elephants carved in ebony.

Two round catapult balls unearthed from the ruins of Carthage. (There is nothing to indicate whether the Romans shot them at the Carthaginians or vice versa. They were unearthed from a Carthaginian arsenal which was being excavated while Ellender was in Tunis.)

An Egyptian Scarab 1,300 years old; Argentine Gaucho footgear for riding on the Pampas; a Russian Ikon in jade; balanced brass oil lamps; an African warrior's shield made of rhinoceros hide; some Greek statues; an African reed hat resembling the wigwag contraption women wear today.

A flock of old Egyptian adobe (mud) lamps which could date back to the time the Israelites under Pharaoh were required to make bricks without straw. There is no straw in these lamps.

A flock of dolls, all dressed up, large and small, from almost every country in the world.

Some wicked looking Moroccan and African knives in sheaths — of the type Ellender would like to use on Sen. Anderson.

A goat-skin water bag, black and crusted with age, reputed to have come from Mary's well in Palestine, where Jesus shocked all the local Loyalty Committee members by holding friendly conversations with the subversive Samaritan woman and then inviting himself to the home of her subversive friends for two days.

A stone vase and stone sickle — Ellender's most prized items — about 4,000 years old from Ur of Chaldaea, probably excavated from the Ziggurat. They could have been lying around when Abraham started on his journey toward Haran and Canaan.

A painted egg shell; a wildcat skin from South America; the skin of a huge python; some ore from Australia; the replica of a tower-like building in Moscow carved out of anthracite coal; carved African figures in ebony; a gaily-decked-out horse and cart, miniature, from Italy; an elaborate Turkish coffee urn with Turkish teapot, used in Turkish harems.

From Hong Kong an ironing

iron in the shape of a deep-dish; a water buffalo carved out of ebony; a delicately carved bridge of ivory, with intricate lacy in the carving. (Supposedly it came from Hong Kong, though the work was probably done in forbidden Red China.)

A brass stork on high legs; a variety of brass candleholders; some English Toby jugs (China mugs in the form of jolly heads for beer, ale, or even bovril); African skin drums; a pair of snake charmers' flutes but not no snake.

An African voodoo image — gay fabric with a bird's head, a Scandinavian comic porcelain head of a native smoking a pipe; other porcelain heads; huge African earrings about three inches in diameter of the type worn by Premier Lumumba's constituents in the Congo.

All this is what the Senator from Louisiana has been collecting while he should have been writing farm legislation.

He Loved Trujillo

This, however, isn't quite all the story about the unique gentleman from Louisiana who says that what Latin America needs is more dictators like Trujillo, who has had his nephew on his office payroll, his brother-in-law on the Internal Revenue payroll, who voted for Dixon-Yates, for Pan-American Airways subsidies, against Hell's Canyon, against any probe of patent monopoly, and once voted against a minimum wage of 65 cents an hour.

The rest of the story is that when Rep. Harold Cooley, (N. C.), was pushing a farm bill in 1955 to benefit all farmers, Ellender threatened to sidetrack it unless Cooley pushed Ellender's sugar bill changing sugar quotas. At the same time, Ellender was pushing his sugar bill, one of the companies benefitting from it, the South Downs Sugar company, sold Ellender four acres of choice land in Houma, La., at $2,500 an acre. Others who offered $4,000 an acre for adjacent lots were turned down.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

There was a little channel leading in from Great South Bay and on the beach was an attractive hotel and a seaside cafe and a lot of glittering boats moored in slips. I took the Richardson in slowly and threw a line to a fat man on the dock. He turned out to be Doberman, of the Bilko Show.

We tied up at Fire Island Pines, the gay spot on Fire Island, for the weekend. The Atlantic Ocean was on the other side of the dunes. For a while, Peggy Fears and I sat at a table, talking about her. She is a plump, fiftyish woman with sleepless eyes and nervous fingers. Once, she was a star in Ziegfeld's Follies when Gladys Glad and Edna Leedom and Baby Shor all had beauty to throw away.

Peggy Fears came out of New Orleans in 1924 "dying to go on the stage." She was 16. She attended the Semple School and, one night, went out on a date with a fellow from Yale named Jock Whitney. He took her to the Richmond Club. It turned out to be a singing, swinging night and Helen Morgan listened to Peggy croon a tune and said: "Kid, you're ripe for Ziegfeld."

She was. The girl went to Ziegfeld auditions instead of school. Ziegfeld seemed to be intrigued by a white streak in her brown hair. He put her in a show called "Louis XIV." It wasn't a memorable thing, but the great Florenz Ziegfeld put her in his next show, "No Foolin'" in a featured role with Edna Leedom and the Yacht Club Boys.

This was a good one. In the chorus line were a lot of new girls; Paulette Goddard, Susan Fleming, Claire Luce, Baby Vogt and, among the showgirls preened in feathers, Gladys Glad and Helen Walsh. Peggy Fears might have remained with Ziegfeld for years, but she chose Hollywood. It was a poor move.

Her career began to stumble. Peggy was introduced to a short, balding man, A. C. Blumenthal. Mr. Blumenthal was a money winger. He sold ideas. It was his idea to build movie cathedrals like the bankers and, without risking much, got some of the economic cream from under the saucer.

His hobby was playing the piano and loving Peggy. He married her in 1929 and, in the first three years of marriage, he earned $15,000. Peggy had five Rolls Royces, a $65,000 chinchilla coat, and $300 in the bank. Their favorite song was "June Night."

Blumey was sensitive and jealous. He wanted publicity, but the photographers seemed to be always shoving him aside to get a picture of his beautiful wife with James J. Walker, mayor of New York. If it wasn't Walker, it was a movie star. The couple fought. They split. They sued and counter-sued and fell in love again and remarried. In time, Peggy and Blumey went through three marriage ceremonies.

In 1950, they split permanently. Peggy sang in night clubs. Blumey lived in Mexico. Eight years later, she received a phone call from a friend in Hollywood. "Blumey has had a heart attack. He's going, and he said he would love to see you, but he couldn't stand to be refused. Do you think you'd like to come to see him?"

Peggy Fears flew to California. She sat with Blumey and saw the surrender in his eyes. He had been playing tennis, at 67, with fast young Mexicans. He had been drinking to keep from fainting in the hot sun. A. C. Blumenthal died broke.

The little kid from New Orleans was now getting too old for the nightclub circuit. She wanted permanent roots. So, on a visit to Fire Island, someone talked her into putting $100 down on a couple of lots. Later, she put a little more on it. And a little more. Finally, she had $10,000 in sand dunes and an inlet on Great South Bay.

Miss Fears borrowed money and built a motel. The morning after it opened, it burned to the ground. Peggy tried again. She built a hotel on the inlet, a restaurant, a waterside cafe with gay umbrellas. "I want it to be a little like the Riviera," she said.

Today, she has more business than she can accommodate. Among the regular customers at Fire Island Pines are Marlene Dietrich, Marilyn Monroe, Polly Bergen, Ella Logan and Martha Raye. A year ago, Peggy Fears paid off the last of the debt. Her place is now valued at $350,000.

We sat talking and I was watching him bob swing at the dock, "I just wanted to know," I said, "what becomes of ex-Follies girls?"

Signs That Give Warning Of A Heart Attack

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons develop a heart attack that is unexpected and a surprise to friends and relatives. Quite often we hear "Tom never felt better in his life when suddenly he complained of . . ." But while Tom is recovering he tells a different story.

Attacks of coronary thrombosis may be preceded by a period of unusual fatigue, usually with a background of overanxiety rather than overwork. There may be bouts of dizziness or shortness of breath, or the individual may break out in perspiration when he becomes upset or attempts too much. Some have a premonition that all is not well. The sensation is difficult to describe except that it is different from any prior experience.

These symptoms may be too vague to warrant a vacation, bed rest, or thorough checkup. They are easily passed off because they do not relate directly to the heart, more so when the electrocardiogram is normal. The physician may suspect an impending coronary but meets resistance when he suggests a week of rest in bed.

The problem is best handled by putting all the cards on the table, explaining the possibilities, and letting the patient decide. The situation calls for good judgment because coronary thrombosis is a serious threat.

On the other hand, the possibility of experiencing a heart attack is much greater when a person develops distress known to be of cardiac origin. Those who suffer from angina pectoris frequently encounter a heart attack in time. They get chest pain on exertion or during excitement, which is relieved by rest or relaxation. Some complain of a feeling of pressure, heaviness, or burning instead of the more characteristic pain under the breastbone.

In angina pectoris the coronary arteries are too narrow to deliver enough blood to the heart when it is asked to beat faster. The next stage is occlusion or blockage of the narrowed segment.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on angina pectoris if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

What with "My Fair Lady" and countless Shavian revivals in America and England, the Bernard Shaw estate is chalking up bigger royalties than G.B.S. ever dreamed of earning while he was alive. Not that Mr. Shaw ever underestimated his talent or drawing power.

J. B. Priestley met him once at the rim of the Grand Canyon, taking in the mighty spectacle without a change of expression on his face. "I could tell at a glance," reported Priestley, "that Mr. Shaw didn't give a darn for the Grand Canyon. Personally, I think he was jealous of it!"

Another time Shaw wrote a letter full of five-syllable words to

Mrs. Pat Campbell. That great actress, unimpressed, wrote back, "Georgie, you're brain proud!"

Resolution Lists Sheriff, Prosecutor

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — The former secretary of the Southern Coal Producers Association Thursday called for censure of the sheriff and prosecuting attorney of Tucker County for alleged failure to prevent violence at the strike-bound Kingsford Charcoal plant at Parsons.

Walter R. Thurmond, Charleston, introduced a resolution to that effect at a meeting of the industrial relations committee of the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce.

Thurmond said State Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron should have called for a special grand jury session and "caused the indictment of both the sheriff of the county and the prosecutor for malfeasance, misfeasance and gross neglect of duty." Barron is the Democratic nominee for governor.

The strike at the plant started early last month and has been marked by several instances of violence.

Thurmond's resolution praised Circuit Judge Ernest A. See for his "prompt" and effective action in the issuing of court orders that led to the stoppage of violent mass picketing, thereby restoring law and order.

See issued an injunction Aug. 10 to limit picketing at the plant. The strike started after the company and the hod carriers union failed to reach agreement on a contract.

Hayes noted that any rainfall after 8 a.m. on the last day of the month is recorded with next month's total.

Hayes said records kept by C. Amer Suter, Frostburg observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, showed the average maximum temperature for the month, 82.4 degrees, is one degree above normal average of 81.4 degrees. The average minimum temperature for the month, 60.7 degrees, is 3.1 degrees above normal average of 57.6 degrees. Oakland KP Sponsors Picnic On Labor Day

OAKLAND — For the first time in a number of years, the public will have an opportunity to attend the Knights of Pythias Labor Day picnic and homecoming.

Tables will be set up in the William Weber Grove near Southern High School, where the affair will be held. Those who desire to spend the day may bring their baskets and make use of the facilities without charge.

A parade is scheduled for 10:30 a. m. Monday, proceeding through Oakland and ending at the picnic grounds where the William A. Griffith shows will be set up to provide entertainment throughout the day and the remainder of the week.

Oakland Boy Scouts will be in charge of parking, and the Southern High School grounds have been made available to handle any overflow of vehicles from the grove area.

The celebration is being resumed by the Knights of Pythias after a lapse of more than 10 years. Formerly held in Helbig Grove, now the site of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the affair annually attracted a large number of persons during its week-long engagement.

The first poster was made by Jules Charet, a Frenchman, in 1867.

School Analysis In Hardy County Shows Progress In Cultural Advancements

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Assistant County School Superintendent Stanley Hawse submitted some interesting figures on pre-school registration for Hardy County. Hawse said that educational growth and improved standards of living in Hardy County are shown in a comparison of figures for September 1960 with September 1955.

Only 153 six year olds will be entering Hardy County schools this year as compared with 215 enrolling in 1955. Most of the difference in the enrollment figure is due to the change in the age requirements this year which is six years of age by November 1 whereas previously a child would be six years old by February 1 could enter school.

Hawse's research into the background of parents showed that 6.6% of this years entering children had parents who are college graduates, compared with 6% five years ago. About 22% of the parents for this years children are high school graduates and 17% were high school graduates five years ago.

Parents who attended grades 9-11 accounted for 15% of the total compared with 10% five years ago. Those who attended through grade 8 five years ago made up 33% of the parents compared with 23% this year. Only 17% of the parents in 1960 attended school only through grade 4 to 7, compared with 27% five years ago.

Five years ago 4% went through the third grade and 3% had no formal schooling. This year 8.4% attended through the third grade.

In the analysis of the size of families entering school student out of ten is from a family with an only child; 26% are from families with two children, 18% from three, 16% from 4, 8% from families with five children and 22% from families with six or more children. Three families had 11 children. Five years ago 25% of the entering students were from families of two children, 7% from families of one child, 20% from families of three children and 48% from families of four or more children. The largest family in 1955 had 14 children.

More parents are employed in 1960 than in 1955 with 94% of the fathers employed and 11% of the mothers, compared with 90% and 10%. Unemployed parents made up 5% of the total both in 1955 and in 1960. Only the mother was employed in one per cent of the parents in 1960 compared with 5% in 1955.

This year 45% of the parents have telephones compared with only 12% five years ago. Five years ago 95% of the parents had radios and 94% have them this year, but in television sets 82% of the homes have TV compared with 33% five years ago. Almost twice as many homes of the children have TV sets than have telephones and five years ago three times as many homes had television sets than had telephones.

Bloomington Adds Tank Truck To Fire Equipment

BLOOMINGTON — The new tank truck of the Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department is ready for service, according to Chief Charles Price.

The truck has been constructed by firemen with materials and equipment obtained through cooperation with the Maryland Civil Defense Organization at an estimated cost of $1,000.

The tank of the pumper has a capacity of 700 gallons which, in addition to the 300 gallon tank on the old truck, now gives the company 1,000 gallons of water with which to fight each fire.

This is particularly important since the Bloomington area is not incorporated and does not have a system of water mains or hydrants from which water could be pumped to fight fires in the town.

Highest lake in the United States is California's Lake Tulainyo.

John Thomas Suffers Shocking Defeat In Olympics

Russians Take First, Second In High Jump

U.S. Ace Is Third;
Hary Defeats Sime;
U.S. Swimmers Win

By TED SMITS

ROME (AP)—John Thomas lost the high jump to Russia in a stunning upset and America was beaten in its 100-meter sprint speciality Thursday but the swimmers helped to restore some of the United States Olympic sports prestige with three gold medals.

After Thomas' shocking defeat and the triumph of Germany's fleet Armin Hary in the 100-meter dash, the United States men's 400-meter medley relay team won a gold medal in world record time and Chris Von Saltza cracked the Olympic mark while winning the women's 400-meter freestyle swim.

Set World Record

Then the men's 800-meter freestyle relay team also smashed a world swimming mark by more than six seconds with an 8:10.2 clocking. Jeff Farrell, the Wichita, Kan., ace who almost missed the trip because of an appendectomy, swam the anchor leg on both winning relay teams.

America's powerful basketball team coasted to a 104-42 romp over Yugoslavia for its fourth straight victory and first in the semifinal round. It was strictly no contest with the U.S. leading 32-1 at one stage.

Despite the three gold medals won by the swimmers, the U.S. still trailed with a total of seven to Russia's 12 firsts. Six of the American medals are in swimming.

In the unofficial point standings after 44 finals in six days of competition, Russia had 220½ points, United States 153 and Germany 121.

Thomas, the 19-year-old Cambridge, Mass., youth who was regarded as the surest of bets for a gold medal, missed three times at 7 feet, 1 inch, a height he has cleared many times before.

Russians Finish 1-2

Robert Shavlackadze and Valery Brunel of Russia both made 7-1 and Shavlackadze won the gold medal when both failed to 7-1½ because he had fewer misses on the way up. It was an Olympic record for the remarkable pair, but short of Thomas' world mark of 7-3¼. Thomas managed to get third place and the bronze medal.

Hary proved himself the world's best sprinter by winning the 100-meter final despite an heroic lunging finish by Dave Sime of Durham, N.C. Both were in :10.2 which tied Hary's own Olympic record set Wednesday.

This was a black day all around for the American track team which came to ancient Rome with high hopes of winning 10 to 15 gold medals. Now it has won only one of the first three, Wednesday's shot put.

The high jump battle held a crowd of 75,000 on edge in the vast Olympic stadium long after dusk.

For a time it was a four-way fight with Viktor Bolshov of Russia hanging in grimly with the leaders. He, like Thomas, failed at 7-1 and took fourth place, again on a matter of inches.

Hary Beats Sime

Hary sped into the lead at the start and never relinquished it. With 10 meters to go, Hary was out in front and the five others were only inches apart. Then Sime unleashed a superhuman effort and, if it did not quite catch Hary, at least it earned the former Duke star an equal time of 10.2 seconds.

Third place went to Peter Radford of Great Britain, fourth to Enrique Figueroa of Cuba and fifth to Frank Budd of Asbury Park, N.J., all in the same time of :10.3. Sixth and last was the pre-meet favorite, Ray Norton of Oakland, Calif., in :10.4.

Hary is co-holder of the world record of 10 seconds flat. The man who shares that mark with him, Harry Jerome of Canada, pulled up lame in the semifinals.

Irina Press of Russia won the women's 80-meter hurdles in 10.8 seconds and Elvira Ozolina of Russia won the javelin title with a toss of 183 feet, 8 inches, which exceeded the Olympic record of 176-8½. There were no U.S. girl qualifiers in the hurdles finals. Karen Oldham of San Diego, Calif., finished 13th in the javelin with a toss of 152-7½.

Equals Dubie's Feat "Slats" Stopped Fay
Green Eyes WVU Post Bowlers Are Honored

By C. V. BURNS

DURING the championship game in the All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament last week at Johnstown, Pa., Tom DeHart of Washington, D.C., slugged a home run over the right field barrier at The Point Stadium.

Thus he becomes the first amateur player ever to accomplish the feat.

Jack Duberstein, first sacker for the Cumberland Colts, was the first player ever to belt the ball over that distant wall in a Middle Atlantic League game against the Johnnies about 20 years ago.

Duberstein was sent here by the Yankees but he didn't stay long. After he failed the Yankees sent Max Pierce here and the husky initial sacker became a regular with the Dobbins. Pierce was really Max Posnak, one of the all-time great basketball players at St. John's College in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Several years after Duberstein hit his record homer at Johnstown, Al Milnar of Zanesville duplicated the feat but he got credit for only a triple. In fact, it probably was the longest 3-bagger on record. He was called out when he passed a preceding runner between third base and home plate.

MICKEY FUFARI, Morgantown sports editor, informs us that Clyde Green, who quit as Romney High School's basketball coach last season after his Pioneers won the state Class AA title and wound up with a 27-0 record, turned down a coaching job in Florida and is "sorta sittin' around waitin' to see what develops."

Clyde is eyeing the freshman coaching job or the assistant coaching post under George King at West Virginia University. Queen Barnette is the frosh mentor at W.V.U. and King moved up from assistant to head varsity coach when Fred Schaus resigned.

Green, now residing on the farm of his father-in-law, was one of West Virginia's basketball greats and played there four years, 1946-1949. Two of the teams he was on played in the N.I.T.

Clyde is particularly interested in getting on at W.V.U. because his Romney High ace, Bill Mapis, is there.

Green is a product of East Bank High School which also produced Jerry West, a player everybody should know by now.

Robert "Red" Brown, W.V.U. athletic director, now is attending the Olympic Games in Rome and no further developments in the coaching situation are expected until he returns home.

BEDFORD'S Interstate Horse Show will be held at the Bedford Fair Grounds Sept. 9-11.

Arthur M. Hine, who once raced thoroughbreds at Fairgo, and is recognized as the discoverer of Robert E. Corle, the Imier, Pa., lad who developed into an outstanding jockey, is the show manager.

Eight U.S. Horse Show champions participated in the 1959 show and most are expected to return this year.

ONE of the early football openers is set for tonight at Clarksburg, W. Va., where Notre Dame High, formerly known as St. Mary's Strippers, meets the St. Francis High Trojans of Morgantown.

St. Francis appears on the schedules of Southern of Oakland and LaSalle High this season.

FORT HILL HIGH football teams have lost only one home opener since the stadium was opened in 1937.

The Sentinels' record is 22-1. They had an 18-game winning streak snapped by Morgantown High in 1955.

THE DEATH of Jimmy Slattery, 56, Tuesday at Buffalo, N. Y., no doubt will remind the "oldtimers" of the days when the youthful Irish lad was one of the classiest boxers in the country.

Slattery started his pro ring career when he was 17, that was in 1921, and he hung up the gloves 11 years later.

In 1924, Jimmy was not quite 20 years old when he stopped Cumberland's Fay Keiser in the third round at Buffalo. Fay was 28 at the time and was nearing the end of his career after ten years of fistie warfare. The date was March 31. The previous week Keiser was stopped in the 12th round by Harry Greb in Baltimore.

The same year Slattery fought such seasoned campaigners as Young Stribling, Harry Krohn, Jackie Clark, Young Fisher, Harry Greb and Jack Delaney. Because he was not yet 21, Slattery was not allowed to box more than six rounds in New York State.

Slattery met the best of his time including Frankie Schoell, Augie Ratner, Dave Shade, Paul Berlenbach, Maxie Rosenbloom, Roland Todd, Tommy Loughran, Johnny Risko, Tommy Loughran, James J. Braddock, Pete Latzo, King Levinsky, Tony Marullo, Tom Heeney and many others.

Jimmy had several title shots, won the NBA crown from Rosenbloom but lost to Berlenbach and Loughran. He was indeed a busy fighter.

THREE Cumberland women bowlers, namely, Kay Leighty, Shirley Morrison and Elsie Morton, have made the Honor Roll of the American Rubberband Luckpin Bowling Congress for the 1959-60 season.

A trio of local men bowlers — Cecil Grimes, Tom McGeedy and Eddie McKay — appear on the list of pin splitters who were unable to compete in enough games to qualify for the top thirty.

Top duckpin artists were Lenora Mandell with an average of 159.103 for 241 games and Norman Henning with 184.174 for 342 games. Both hail from McKeesport, Pa.

Green is particularly interested in getting on at W.V.U. because his Romney High ace, Bill Mapis, is there.

Green is a product of East Bank High School which also produced Jerry West, a player everybody should know by now.

Robert "Red" Brown, W.V.U. athletic director, now is attending the Olympic Games in Rome and no further developments in the coaching situation are expected until he returns home.

Ritter's Snaps Vets' 15-Game Victory Skein

Cops 3rd Game, 8-5 Fourth Tilt Today

The 15-game winning streak of the Veterans of Foreign Wars went down the drain yesterday when Ritter's Athletic Club won the third game of the Rocking Chair Softball League's best-of-five final series at Stitches Field by the score of 8-5.

It was the first defeat for the league's pennant winners since June 30 and the setback was also the first in ten games for Floyd "Pete" Elliott, who went the route on the rubber for the Vets.

The fourth game of the series is set for today at 6 p.m. at Stitches Field. The Vets lead two games to one and need only one more win to wrap up the playoff crown.

Glenn Kauffman notched his 16th win of the campaign after absorbing his ninth and tenth losses at the hands of the Vets earlier in the week. The loss was the third for Elliott against 11 victories.

George Stevenson headed the R.A.C. stickers with three hits while George Geatz, Bob Koelker and Kauffman obtained two blows each. Koelker and Kauffman pounded triples.

Vernon Penner hit a tremendous homer to the right field bank with Ted Durbin aboard to tie the score at 3-3 in the bottom of the third frame. Jimmy Eckard accounted for two of the Vets' nine safeties.

The rival first sackers, Dave Ritter of Ritter's and Penner of the Vets, were outstanding in the field.

Pinson's Homer Tops Cards, 7-4

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Vada Pinson's three-run homer broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning Thursday night and gave the Cincinnati Reds a 7-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The loss dropped the Cards into third place, 7½ games behind the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates. Bob Purkey, who contributed a single during the game-winning rally, went the route for the Reds to notch his 15th victory against eight losses.

A walk to Willie Jones, and Purkey's single, preceded Pinson's two-out homer, his 16th of the season.

Victim of the clout, a drive over the left field wall, was Bob Gibson, who absorbed his fifth loss against three victories.

Brelsford, Lowery Hook Up 6th Time

Greenpoint Inn's Old Exports and Ellerslie, pennant winner and runner-up in the County Softball League, open their best-of-five final playoff series today at 6 p.m. at Narrows Park Field.

The Old Exports wound up the regular season with a 31-4 record while Ellerslie finished seven games behind with 24 wins and 11 losses. In the playoff semi-finals, Ellerslie kayoed Corriganville in two straight while Greenpoint Inn captured two out of three games from Stringtown.

The series will feature the two winningest pitchers in the league. Junior Brelsford, of Greenpoint Inn, owns a 29-3 mark, including the playoffs, and he has posted a total of 13 shutouts, held the opposition to a single run in six games and lost two games by the margin of one run. He also has a pair of no-hitters to his credit. Vernon Lowery, Ellerslie's ace, has won 23 games, lost eight, scored five shutouts, held opponents to a single run in nine games and dropped three games by one run.

Greenpoint holds a 3-2 edge in its series with Ellerslie. Brelsford has opposed Lowery five times and has won thrice, 3-1, 7-4 and 2-1, lost once, 1-0, and battled it out to a 1-1 tie in a 13-inning game July 15. Lowery's other win over Greenpoint was a 6-3 decision at the expense of Buddy Crosten.

Clemente's Homer Sparks Pirates To 6-1 Triumph

Giants Get 14 Hits, Leave 15 Men On Bases

Clem Labine Helps Haddix Win Tenth, Maranda Is Loser

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Red-hot Roberto Clemente blasted a three-run homer in the first inning Thursday and started the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates on the way to a 6-1 triumph over the San Francisco Giants who left 15 base runners stranded.

Harvey Haddix, with an assist from Clem Labine, posted his 10th win of the season although he gave up 10 hits during the five and two-thirds innings he worked. Clemente also cracked two singles during the afternoon and tallied an unearned run in the eighth inning.

Clem Is Reliever

Labine, the former Dodger relief artist, took over from Haddix in the sixth inning with two aboard and two out and made Willie Mays hit into a force out.

Georges Maranda, a 28-year-old rookie pitcher, took his third loss and damaged his own cause with a skull and a throwing error.

The French-Canadian right-hander failed to touch third base during the fourth inning while coming around on a blow to left field by Andre Rodgers and was called out to retire the side.

In the eighth inning Maranda committed a throwing error which helped the Pirates to score two runs.

Clemente Hits 13th

Clemente highlighted the first inning with his 13th home run, a 400-foot shot over the left center field barrier which brought in Bob Skinner and Rocky Nelson. Skinner had singled and Nelson followed with a double after two were out.

Pittsburgh scored two more during the eighth inning with Labine hitting across one of the runs. Nelson singled home the sixth Pirate tally in the ninth following Dick Groat's double off relief pitcher Stu Miller.

The Giants got a total of 14 hits but could score only in the first inning when Rogers tripled and Mays singled.

San Francisco had men on base in every inning but could not produce the extra hits to score.

Mickey Wright Cops Eastern Open Title

DILLSBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Mickey Wright "ran out of gas" in her bid for a new women's golf record Thursday, but still managed to salvage the championship of the Women's Eastern Open with a 54-hole total of 213.

The blonde beauty, who set a course record Tuesday with a 67 and followed it Wednesday with a 76, needed another 70 Thursday to break the 54-hole mark of 208 set last June by Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S.C.

Instead she skidded to a four-over-par 76 as she bogied the final three holes.

But the seven-stroke lead with which she entered the final round still proved too much for the rest of the field to overcome, and she walked off with the top prize of $1,247 in the $7,500 tournament at Range End Country Club.

Adcock Socks Two Homers In 10-1 Triumph

Milwaukee's Buhl Records Win No. 13

CHICAGO (UPI)—Joe Adcock clouded his 20th and 21st home runs, each with a man on base, Thursday to drive in four runs and lead the Milwaukee Braves to a 10-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

The Braves racked up 25 total bases on 11 hits as Bill Bruton pounded his 10th home run plus a triple and Del Crandall, Ed Mathews and Eddie Haas all doubled.

Dick Drott, starting for the first time since July 2, lasted less than three innings and was charged with his sixth loss without a win. He gave up four runs, and relievers Bob Anderson and Seth Morehead each allowed three.

Bruton's triple, Crandall's double and Al Dark's sacrifice fly gave the Braves two runs in the first. In the third, after Bruton walked and scored on Mathews' double off Drott, Dark singled and Haas doubled off Anderson for two more.

Adcock's first homer came in the fifth with Mathews on base and his second in the seventh with Crandall in front of him.

Bob Buhl scattered 6 hits for his 13th victory. The Cubs' run came on Al Heist's triple and Bob Will's infield out in the eighth.

Beall Blames Foley For Failure Of Canal Bill

U.S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall in a speech Wednesday night to the Washington County Republican Central Committee at the Elks on the picnic grounds in Hagerstown laid the blame for failure of enactment of the C&O Canal Park bill on Rep. John R. Foley, the Democratic candidate for reelection to the House from the Sixth District.

"I take pride in the fact that the Senate passed my bill on two occasions, once in 1958 and again in 1960," Sen. Beall stated. Approval in the House would have given life to this project, he added.

"I introduced S. 77 at the opening of the 86th Congress—that was in January, 1959. Soon thereafter, the Congressman from this district (Foley) asked my permission to introduce my bill on the House side. I gave permission—but then the Congressman introduced two bills. The other, quite different from mine, was slanted to favor public power.

"In July 1960 the House Interior Committee reported the bill which was substantially the same as mine. However, because of poor steering by the Congressman, the House voted down the bill 227 to 134.

"Some thought this meant the end of the C&O Canal Park bill.

Sen. Randolph Says AMA Head Distorted Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) Thursday accused Dr. Vincent Askey, president of the American Medical Association, of "flagrant distortions" of a speech Randolph made at Denver, Colo.

Askey told the West Virginia Medical Association last weekend that he heard Randolph criticize the AMA for allegedly not doing enough to help provide medical care for the aged.

Askey's prepared text quoted Randolph as saying the AMA and the medical profession had been "wayward and was 'not doing anything for our aged population.'" Askey revised the text just prior to making the speech.

In his letter to Askey, Randolph said:

"I was aware you were in the audience to which I spoke...If I had offended you or your organization, why didn't you tell me in Denver, rather than choose the method of reporting falsely to my fellow West Virginians."

"You spoke falsely when you charged that I singled out the American Medical Association because I did not once disparage the AMA in my remarks at Denver.

"You spoke falsely when you charged that I singled out the medical profession as being wayward in not doing anything for our aged population," Randolph said.

Concerning various bills for medical care for the aged mentioned by Askey in his address, Randolph said, "On this point I concede there are honest differences between the senator from West Virginia and the stated American Medical Association position."

However, he added, "I am unwilling to concede that you, as president of this association, have reason to report falsely to my fellow West Virginians because it happens that I do not fully agree with you."

Randolph concluded in one of his most strongly-worded statements:

"It is unthinkable that you should have appeared before any group and uttered such twisted and distorted accounts of what you claimed you heard me say to a group of physicians and surgeons in Denver."

Judge Upholds Leave Arbitration

BALTIMORE (AP) — Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen ruled Thursday that the Maryland Telephone Union could arbitrate grievances dealing with jobs and hours offered to women returning from pregnancy leaves.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. had opposed any such arbitration as a matter outside the union contract.

According to evidence presented, some 300 women employed by C & P annually interrupt employment to take maternity leave. It was company policy to place women who returned in their former position if the job was vacant. Sometimes the returning opera-

Grim Reminders

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. (AP)—The wreckage of two autos was set up here Thursday—grim Labor Day weekend reminders for passing motorists.

Five migrant workers died Aug. 1 in one of the cars. Four persons were killed Aug. 30 in the other.

The wrecks were put on display by the Middletown Area Safety Council.

Ernest Kimball opened the first cafeteria in the United States in Chicago in 1895.

Askey's prepared text quoted Randolph as saying the AMA and the medical profession had been "wayward and was 'not doing anything for our aged population.'" Askey revised the text just prior to making the speech.

In his letter to Askey, Randolph said:

"I was aware you were in the audience to which I spoke...If I had offended you or your organization, why didn't you tell me in Denver, rather than choose the method of reporting falsely to my fellow West Virginians."

"You spoke falsely when you charged that I singled out the American Medical Association because I did not once disparage the AMA in my remarks at Denver.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all who were so kind and thoughtful during the recent illness and following the death of our dear Mother, Mrs. Eva Boettcher. Words are inadequate to express our thanks to the staff of Miners Hospital for their kindness to her while a patient in the Hospital. We are grateful to all who sent flowers, and to those who loaned cars for the funeral, and to the many, many friends and neighbors for their thoughtfulness. For each act of kindness we are truly grateful.

WILLIAM BOETTCHER
JOHN BOETTCHER
NELLIE B. MILLER

We wish to thank Whetzel & Thorne for the work they did with their Pay Loader in the Bloomington Cemetery. It was greatly appreciated.

Barton Logger Is Killed When Tractor Upsets

Maurice Fazenbaker Pinned Under Vehicle

A 42-year-old tractor operator who resided in Barton was killed yesterday morning when the vehicle upset while he was driving it near Moscow in a logging operation.

Maurice B. Fazenbaker, according to the deputy county medical examiner's office, died almost instantly due to traumatic asphyxiation. His lungs were compressed and he was unable to get his breath.

The accident occurred about 11:45 a.m. on Pekin Hill about a mile west of Moscow on the property of the A. P. Hoffa Coal Company located off Maryland Route 36 in the Georges Creek section of Allegany County.

Hauling Logs

The victim and his brother, Robert Fazenbaker and a nephew, Paul Fazenbaker, were cutting and hauling logs used for pulpwood.

His brother and nephew were about 200 feet from the scene of the accident and heard the motor of the tractor stop.

Upon investigation they found the victim pinned under the wreckage, and lifted the vehicle from his body. The victim was reported to have been driving the tractor upside down when it apparently hit a rock or stump and upset.

A native of Firm Rock, Mr. Fazenbaker, who was single, was a son of Mrs. Fannie (Grove) Fazenbaker of Barton and the late Oliver C. Fazenbaker.

Besides his mother, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Berntha Miller, Westport; Mrs. Leona Magruder and Mrs. Mary Broadwater, both of Barton.

Funeral Sunday

Also surviving are four brothers, John Fazenbaker, of Baltimore; Stanley Fazenbaker, Barton; Howard Fazenbaker of Westport and Robert Fazenbaker, of Lonaconing.

The body was taken to the Beal Funeral Home in Westport where a service will be conducted Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Rev. H. G. Laube, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Westport, will officiate and interment will be in Philo Cemetery.

Friends will be received at the funeral home from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Institute Set At Hagerstown On Delinquency

The third Delinquency Control Institute for the western region of the state will be held Wednesday, September 21, at Hagerstown.

During the past two years an institute was held at the University of Maryland for law enforcement officers working with juveniles.

This year's institute is being held in the four regions of the state in the hope that additional personnel can participate.

The subject matter of the institute is being limited to the relationship between law enforcement and community agencies. The session will stress the principles of close coordination and communication so that the best interest of the child and the community are served.

Tfc. Jack C. Browning, assigned to the LaVale barracks, is a member of the regional committee and is handling reservations. Law enforcement officers in this area interested in attending the institute should contact Tfc. Browning.

The institute is being sponsored by the State Department of Public Welfare, Child Welfare Bureau.

BAILEY DOTSON

YFC Meetings To Be Held At First Methodist

Bailey Dotson Will Speak Here Saturday

Beginning Saturday night, the Tri-State Youth for Christ will meet regularly in the newly constructed First Methodist Church on Frederick Street.

The 13-year-old inter-denominational organization which features a program for teen-agers, has been meeting in the Salvation Army Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street, for 11 years.

Dwight I. Evans, director, said Salvation Army leaders have been very congenial and the reason for the change is that accommodations at the new meeting place will contribute toward a better musical program, the basic component of the rallies. Also, there is ample parking space available.

The rally this week will feature teen-age preacher Bailey Dotson, Mr. Storm, W.Va., who recently returned from a preaching tour in Mexico. Mr. Dotson is a second-year student at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago.

Those desiring transportation to the rally are to meet at the City Hall, on the Liberty Street side, at 7:30 p.m.

The Saturday night rallies are for all ages. The public is invited to attend.

Baltimore Pike Fire Company Now Certified

Lower Insurance Rates Expected

Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company has just been certified as an approval rural fire department by the Maryland Fire Underwriters Rating Bureau. It means lower fire insurance rates for people in the area protected by the company.

The rating bureau notified the company of its approval this week. John A. Beilein, chief engineer for the bureau, wrote that the rating is effective as of May 18.

This means that persons who reside within four miles of the fire hall may apply for reductions in their fire insurance rates dating back to May 18.

The fire company, organized about 20 years ago, never had been certified by the rating bureau. Its approval became possible with the purchase of a new fire truck and completion of classes and drills by company members.

In order to be certified, a fire company must have a pumper engine of at least 500 gallons capacity. Until recently the company had only a 325-gallon pumper. It now has a 600-gallon truck and keeps the old one in reserve.

The company has 43 members. Its president is Carl Mallow and the fire chief is Harry DeHaven.

Donald Ware, general chairman for the company's harvest fun festival which was held August 10, said last night the company realized $253.10 from the event. The festival was conducted by the company, its auxiliary, and the Teen-Age Fireettes to raise money to help pay for the new fire engine.

Mr. Ware expressed thanks to all those who helped with the festival or who made donations toward it.

$115,000 Sought In Three Suits Docketed Here

Three damage suits seeking a total of $115,000 were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Rodney J. Slider, RFD 3, Keyser, through Attorney Jack I. Mullen of the firm of Anderson, Mullen and Bowen, brought a $50,000 suit against John G. Eversole, 75 National Highway, LaVale and the Schmidt Baking Company, Frederick Street.

The declaration stated that Mr. Slider was driving on U.S. Route 219 near Berlin, Pa., about 3:15 p.m. March 4 when he was forced to stop because of drifting snow and that his automobile was struck in the rear by a Schmidt truck operated by Mr. Eversole.

He contended that the truck was traveling too fast for the condition of the highway. The plaintiff listed his injuries as sprain, trauma, abrasion, contusion and concussion. He cited his hospital and doctor expenses and the loss of wages as a result of his injuries.

Raymond E. Henry, Vale Summit, through the law firm of Cobey, Carscaden, Gilchrist and Getty, seeks a total of $40,000 in a two-part suit against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, Inc., operator of a store on Broadway in Frostburg. Mr. Henry asserts that his wife, Mrs. Lula M. Henry, was injured last November 14 when she fell over a box in the store's aisle and died one week later.

Mr. Henry asks $25,000 for the loss of services, society and comfort of his wife and $15,000 for her pain and suffering, hospital and medical expenses.

Mrs. Phyllis McCune, 408 North Centre Street, through Attorneys William C. Walsh and William Walsh, seeks $25,000 damages from John Thomas Melvin Jr. and John Thomas Melvin Sr., both 466 Columbia Street. Mrs. McCune charges that she was struck by the Melvins' car at the intersection of Valley and North Centre streets about 12:45 p.m. June 11. Her injuries included a fractured pelvis and fractured left elbow.

Compensation Appeal Is Filed In Court

Henry F. Bennett, employee and claimant, through Attorney Simon F. Reilly, has filed an appeal in Allegany County Circuit Court from a decision of the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

Joseph E. Lewis and Company, Inc., employer, and the State Accident Fund, insurer, are involved in the case. Mr. Bennett contends that the permanent partial disability he is now suffering is in excess of the award for permanent partial disability granted by the commission on May 26, 1958, and reaffirmed August 16.

Mr. Bennett was injured in the course of his employment on June 13, 1954.

Wineow Street Overpass Pact Meeting Slated

SRC Officials To Be Here Sept. 15

Problems involved in the construction of the Wineow Street overhead bridge phase of the Cumberland Thruway may be discussed by officials of the City of Cumberland and the Maryland State Roads Commission here next week.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday he has been advised by John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer, that A. L. Grubb, bridge engineer, and R. J. Hajzyk, chief of the SRC's Bureau of Planning and Programming, will be here Thursday, September 15, for the express purpose of discussing the agreement for the project.

He advised Mayor Keech that the SRC officials will be available for a conference with the Mayor and Council after 11 a.m.

Mayor Keech said he will discuss the matter with the Council Tuesday and attempt to set up a meeting.

Such a conference was suggested by Mayor Keech recently in a letter to the Commission after Mr. Bushby forwarded a copy of a tentative agreement between the City, SRC and the B&O Railroad in connection with the railroad overpass.

The City, Mayor Keech said, does not want to vacate Wineow Street other than the portion occupied by the subway and does not want the underpass closed to traffic until the latest possible date, preferably during the latter part of the overhead project.

There are a number of subjects to be discussed in connection with the overpass, including the traffic pattern, lighting of the bridge and its approaches, and the relocation of utilities.

Consolidation Plan Discussed In Hampshire

Green Spring Parents Oppose Merger

The Hampshire County Board of Education held a special night session last night, presumably concerning the opposition to the consolidation of the Green Spring School with the elementary school in Springfield but the outcome of the meeting was still unclear last midnight.

Bernard D. Hughes, new superintendent of schools in the nearby West Virginia county, reported at 10:15 p.m. (EDT) that the meeting was still in progress and that the protestants from Green Spring had not yet been heard.

It was understood that a number of persons were gathered at the Court House in hopes of attending the school board meeting.

The 70 to 75 Green Spring pupils reported to their old school yesterday morning when the new school term got under way, but discovered the building locked and no teachers on hand.

The Hampshire County Board of Education had decided Tuesday night to consolidate the Green Spring School, condemned by the State Fire Marshal's office, with the school at Springfield, just eight miles away.

Besides pointing to the condemnation of the building, the school board noted in its Tuesday decision that there are not enough certified teachers available for both Springfield and Green Spring. Better educational opportunities will be offered by the consolidation, the board reasoned.
